FOR NEXT GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA

ADJT. GEN. D. H. HASTINGS,

Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

To make sure of the World's Fair New York is pushing ahead to raise $10,000,000. What Chicago, St. Louis or Washington propose to raise is not stated.

W C Alexander, of the Grove City Banking Company, has been elected cashier of the First National bank of Mercer, William Miller, Jr., retiring to enter upon his duties as United States Bank Examiner.

ENGLAND imports over one-fifth of the iron ore used, against one-sixth five years ago and the current expansion of its iron production is increasing this proportion and steadily adding to the cost of the Bessemer production.

SENATOR ALLISON thinks there will be tariff legislation this session, and when it comes it will be in the line of the bill that was passed by the Senate last year; but, of course, it must originate in the House, and we shall have to wait for the Committee on Ways and Means.

EX-SECRETARY KIRKWOOD says that the Republican reverse in Iowa this fall was owing, for one thing, to the policy that has been pursued towards the railroads in the State. The influence of that interest was exerted in self-defence and will not cease so long as an antagonistic policy calls for retaliation, says the venerable ex-Senator.

A NUMBER of bright young men who went into the new States of the Northwest are coming East now as United States Senators and members of Congress. In every instance in the East they held subordinate positions, and had they remained here they would have continued to be as far removed from seats in Congress as the celestial world. Go West young man, is as good advice to-day as thirty years ago.

There are certain other points touched upon in the report which deserves a more extended notice, such as the creation of a naval reserve, which is highly favored by the Secretary, and the improvement of the personnel of the service. But the report itself should be read, The country can congratulate itself upon having one of the livest, most energetic and most efficient Secretaries of the navy that has ever served in the American Cabinet.

REPUBLICAN sentiment has undoubtedly made great progress in Great Britain during the last half century and the country is a republic in everything but the name. Still, we do not believe the monarchy is in any immediate danger. It is a double of which our British friends are extremely proud, and we do not believe they will willingly relinquish it until they secure a monarch who is of so obnoxious a character that they cannot endure even his imaginary reign.

SENATOR EDMUND'S plan for commemorating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by establishing a University at the seat of the National Government by a liberal appropriation from the United States Treasury, is one that will be likely to meet with general approbation. There will be a difference whether or not there should be a denominational restriction. Probably the majority of the people of the United States would be content to have the institution as free as the Government itself. Besides, we make appropriations only without restrictions as to the religious belief.

THE newspaper is an invaluable assistant in every home. It is an educator and for that reason should be chosen wisely, but the poorest publication, unless it be positively vicious, is worth many times its subscription price. The children who read the family journal have a knowledge of passing events which is of great present benefit and which will come vividly back to them with the passing years. There are old men to-day who remember vividly matters of fact which they read in their childhood, but are unable to recall events which transpired a year or two ago. Let the young people have access to the newspapers of to-day.

THE COURT VS. NEWSPAPERS.

All honor to the court of Centre county! but when his Honor, Judge Furst, on last Saturday requested newspapers not to publish the evidence as given in the habeas corpus of Alfred Andrews, he was infringing on the rights of journalism as laid down by the laws of this commonwealth. The press is the mouth-piece of the public; it is the medium for circulating news and conveying to its patrons the legal and lawful transpirings of all that occurs or takes place. As a dependent upon public patronage it is not in the power of a live and wide-awake newspaper to suppress the publication of good news matter, when such matter is anticipated and looked for by its readers, by the request of the court.

The hearing on Saturday was a public hearing, held in the public halls of justice, with fully five hundred present hearing all the evidence, and with no attempt at secrecy. Those present were not requested to keep to themselves what they had heard and, had they been, such a request would have been preposterous—extremely so; they will go abroad to their several homes and tell what they heard and saw, and probably tell the facts not near so correctly—likely exaggerate their story—as it would appear in the newspapers, and the evidence as given would be circulated despite the fact of its suppression by the newspapers.

Moreover, according to the laws of the United States, it is beyond the jurisdiction of any Judge to command the suppression of any piece of news that is not scandalous, criminal or libelious, and when a Judge has no authority to command he should not request, as by so doing he places the party or parties of whom the request is made in a peculiar situation—either to openly disregard the wisdom and judgment of the court, or else to fail to supply his patrons, those on whom he is dependent for the success of his business, with what they bargain and pay for when they subscribe for his paper.

The reason given by the court—that it might put the court to great inconvenience in the selection of a jury when prisoner would be brought up for trial—does not seem to us to be a well founded one. For what man, unless he be too ignorant to so do, his oath to the contrary notwithstanding, does not form some kind of an opinion of every occurrence of which he reads or talks; and does this unfit him for a juryman? Most certainly not. The best jurors are those who have a mind of their own; one who can and does form opinions that can be changed or governed according to the evidence. A jury that was composed entirely of men who never had formed any opinion is a dangerous body to depend on for a just rendition of a true verdict according to the law and the evidence in the case, because it is almost a certainty that they are! not capable of forming any opinion. If the editor of this paper was to be placed on trial for his life, and had any voice in the selection of a jury, he would have men who had formed opinions but whose opinions could be changed according to the evidence in the case. Those are the men that compose the make up of an intelligent jury, and that jury is the one that will render a just and true verdict.

In his request to the press not to publish the evidence in the case we ascribe to the Court conscientious motives on his part of great charitableness for the prisoner and a creditable anxiety to deal fairly with both the Commonwealth and prisoner under arrest.

The report published in this paper of the hearing on Saturday contains all the evidence in the case and gives it in a way, according to our understanding that cannot injure the cause of justice or inconvenience the court in the selection of a jury when the case comes up for trial next January, and, we feel certain when Judge Furst reads our report and considers, that he will acknowledge if he had been in our place he would have done likewise.

MR. GREENE, a Philadelphia wool commission merchant, circularized others in the business throughout the country to do what they could to prevent the election to the Speakership of Congressman Reed. His success was insignificant. The wool and every other interest will be just as safe in Reed's as they would be in McKinley's hands.

WHERE WILL IT END?

Nearly every day we read in the metropolitan journals the sensational announcements of the sudden collapse of fortunes, the closing of princely mansions, and the selling of gorgeous family equipment. The haste to get rich and move in fashionable society has tempted many men to sacrifice principle, honor and reputation to acquire wealth suddenly, which as suddenly takes to itself wings and leaves the victim and his family to the mercies of a cruel and heartless world. He listens to the syren song of the stockholder, and invests his surplus capital in some favorite stocks, and anxiously watches the result. Fortune may favor him in the first turn of the wheel, and as a consequence he imagines himself upon the road to success. The previous slow process of accumulating money has lost all charms, and the temptation is so strong to make a fortune by a short cut that he gradually becomes less cautious in making investments, and when he thinks his greatness still in the ascendancy, he suddenly finds that the savings of a life time are swept away, as are also those of his friends and creditors, whose money he had used to cover his margins. It is the old story over again. If the victim survives his reverses and disgrace he is obliged to accept some menial position in possibly the very line of business which he had once thought so slow. The mania for speculation has increased year after year, and the legitimate business of the country has to suffer for it.

The infection to acquire riches by a quick process has spread to all parts of the country, and hardly a day passes but some absconding official, once prominent, once respected, has been obliged to flee the country after squandering his own fortune and the money of others by reckless and criminal speculation. The time has come when individuals occupying positions of trust having in their hands the control of millions of other people's money should not be allowed under any circumstances to invest or loan it outside of legitimate channels. The country needs a national law which will be far-reaching and so stringent in its provisions as to make illegitimate speculation a grave and serious crime.

Needs of Our Navy.

Every American citizen ought to read Secretary Tracy's report. It is more interesting than a novel. It is packed full of facts, fused in a glow of enthusiasm, and the result is a State paper unexcelled in style and matter by anything of the kind that has been put before the public for many years.

In the first place, the Secretary shows that with the construction of all the vessels now authorized the United States will only have forty-two modern ships, and that only three of these are designed for fighting at sea. We have begun a navy, but only begun, and that in a small way. The absolute necessity of an effective naval force is, we believe, appreciated by the people, and needs no demonstration. Every patriotic American will agree with Secretary Tracy when he says: "The country needs a navy that will exempt it from war, but the navy that will accomplish this is a navy that can wage war." As for the cost, the Secretary says:

"The cost of building a navy casts no perceptible burden upon a country of our vast resources. It is the premium paid by the United States for the insurance of its acquired wealth and its growing industries. Compared with the interests that are secured the rate is low. We collect in duties in six months at a single port a greater sum than we could spend in building a navy in six years."

Our most important need now is battle ships. Eventually we shall need at least twenty of these—twelve for the Atlantic and eight for the pacific. We have cruisers enough for the present. Besides the battle ships are needed 20 coast defense vessels. Eight of these are now under construction.

Furthermore, the Secretary recommends strongly the offering of inducements to private parties to build American merchant steamers, fast and powerful enough to serve as cruisers in time of war. The British Government has a splendid fleet of the ocean grey hounds at its disposal, and there is no good reason why we should not have something just as good. The adoption of this idea would not only increase greatly the effective force of our navy, but would give a tremendous impulse to American industries and American commerce.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Jefferson Davis reached his 81st birthday the third of last June. His life was as full of interesting events as it was full of years. He was born in Kentucky, afterward went to Mississippi where his permanent home has been ever since. He received a military education, was elected to the House of Representatives, where he served with great distinction until the Mexican War broke out. He then went to the front, fought valorously for the Union and was promoted several times. When he came home he was elected to the United States Senate, but was called by President Pierce to be his Secretary of War. When Pennsylvania's President, Buchanan, went to the White House Jefferson Davis returned to the Senate where he remained until the Southern States proclaimed their Confederacy in 1860. The South loved Davis and trusted him. He loved the South and encouraged it when secession was talked of. He was as bitter a partisan as ever lived, and so the Convention which met at Montgomery elected him President of the Confederate States of America. In 1862 he was re-elected for a term of six years. In 1865 he was captured and imprisoned in Fortress Monroe. After remaining in captivity two years he was pardoned, He traveled in Europe, came home and lived a private life ever since. In 1881 his book, "The Rise and Fall of the Confederacy," was published, but met with poor success, being principally devoted to a vindication of the South in seceding. The history of the war from his standpoint, which he has talked about so much was never written, and the world will regret it. No matter how eccentric, how obstinate, how unrelenting he may have been, he was still one of the most interesting figures of the Civil War, and he must have had a wonderful fund of personal reminiscences that would be valuable, which should have been embodied in book form under his direction.

"Jeff" Davis never would believe that the spirit of the Confederacy was quite dead, and always expressed hopes of its awakening. His head was full of brains, and he was a statesman of no mean ability, in fact he was one of the ablest that ever came from the South. He was remarkably popular with his people, who sincerely mourn his departure.

His epitaph should be: Here lies a great man who was the victim of a delusion.

Repeating Causes of Calamity.

Strange it is that in this day of improvement in mechanical methods and scientific knowledge, so many devices for the safety of people and security of prosperity should turn out the reverse Buildings that where supposed to be fire-proof prove to be fire traps. Hardly a day goes by without a case coming to light. Then there are elevators,—often the source of danger for meeting which no provision has been made. Then has followed the danger from the electrical current supplied by wires, in many cases put up in a manner the most dangerous without an adequate provision for inspection or other steps looking to security. Upon these things we have come suddenly. The chilly season has had not a little to do with it; and there is every reason to fear that we have only just entered the fateful path of experience. New buildings are going up on all hands, some of them reaching almost to the skies, apparently repeating all these dangers and causes of calamity and rendering it certain that awful experience will repeat itself. Insurance companies must feel how true this is, and to them we naturally look to have something done.

THE Iowa Democrats have not got through celebrating the fact that their ticket was not entirely defeated in November. The Jefferson Democratic Flambeau Club, of Keokuk, at a dinner the other night, listened to the Hon. Pete Ballingall, of Ottumwa, responde to the toast, "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." There is evidence in the remarks of the Hon. Peter that he considered the toast a quotation from the Bible. The Iowa Democrats have not had much chance to be thankful politically for some time, not having elected a single state officer since 1854 until this year, and they will probably keep on celebrating Boies' election for thirty-five years.

BESIDES Mr. Randall there are other invalids in Congress. Mr. Kelley is not fit for much work. Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Mills are not in good health, and neither, it is said, will be able to figure largely. Senator Beck has not his former fighting strength, and there are others still on the invalid list.

A CHANCE OF A LIFETIME.

The price of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN is $1.50. We want 500 new subscribers before the 1st of January, 1890. How are we going to get them? Simply by giving more than has ever been given before in this county. Everybody wants to read a county paper, and all try to get the best. The REPUBLICAN is now as good a paper, and will, ere long be THE BEST in the county. We now make the following offer:

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 8, 1889.

As has become fashionable in the last few years the members of Congress are reluctant to give an off-hand opinion of the President's message, and, apart from a few new members who are ready to express an opinion on any subject at a moment's notice, satisfactory interviews are impossible to-day. Secretary Anson McCook took the reading of the message in the Senate out of the charge of his assistants and read it himself, with the result that not one in a dozen could understand what he was saying. The Senate listened, however, with apparently close attention. Senator Edmunds, who had distinguished himself the day before by being the only Senator joining in the Chaplain's recitation of the Lord's Prayer, crouched so low in his chair that one could not tell whether he was intently listening or only sleeping.

The scene in the house during the reading of the message was without dignity or decency. All the visiting, talking and going in and out proceeded as usual. Ex-Speaker Carlisle took advantage of the long reading to make a call on Mr. Randall, a few blocks away.

The lobbyists are here in good force and the ranks are being daily recruited from different parts of the country. The detectives stationed at the railway station to keep watch for confidence men and other swell gentry have much annoyance from the appearance of newly arriving lobbyists. The best fed gangs are attached to the causes of the several cities that are after the World's Fair of 1892. There appears to be money in it. The supply of champagne seems unlimited. The St. Louis promoters seem surprisingly prosperous. From Gen. John B Clark, ex-clerk of the House, and ex-Congressman Clardy to the toughest rounds in the list of persuaders, all are clean cut, bustling, good-humored and well dressed.

One of the most pleasing events of the opening of Congress was the re-election of Rev. Dr. Milburn, the blind chaplain, of the House. The event is significant as showing by what a narrow majority the dominant party holds power. By a few Republicans refraining from voting and three Republicans voting with the Democrats Dr. Milburn was elected. A stong effort was made by the party managers to prevent a bolt from caucus in the very first hours of the session, but it was unavailing.

Helpful to Business.

Certain Democratic papers ridicule the President's message because, as it is alleged, it is tame and not sensational. It is a sufficient answer to criticism of such a character, that every valuable interest and business as a whole in the land feels safer and more hopeful on account of the message. It contains nothing disturbing. Its few positive recommendations are on the line of a progressive policy—particularly those relating to the surplus and to revenue readjustment. It easily might have been otherwise. There might have been brilliancy at the cost of stability; sensation at the expense of safety. The message is helpful to business. What more did any one want? What better could there be?

Bishop Tuigg Dead.

Bishop Tuigg's death is a great loss to the denomination over whose interests he presided. He was not only Bishop of the Church, but father to his people. In the performance of his duties he showed large executive ability and a clear understanding of men. Possessed of strong will power, he was considerate of the feelings of mankind and dealt compassionately with them. He won the hearts of the members of the church not only, but had the sincere regard of all who knew him.

At Waterville, Me., a 1,000-pound weight dropped from the clock in the Unitarian Church, crushing the costly organ beyond the possibility of repair.

GENERAL NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Tibbles, of Cincinnati have a baby that was born with two molar teeth in its upper jaw.

David Magaw, late of the Park Hotel, New Brighton, has purchased the Central Hotel, Beaver Falls, paying therefor $35,000.

John Lafountain, who died near Huntingdon, Ind., the other day, was a grandson of the last chief of the Miami Indians,

A large tract of tea land in the neighborhood of Canton this year yielded per acre $1,000 in tea leaves of the finest quality.

There is a scarcity of natural gas at Monongahela City and the School Board has decided to return to the use of coal in the schools.

The citizens of Salineville, O., will on the 16th inst., vote upon the question whether or not that town shall be lighted by electricity.

Charles N Boyd, of Butler, and Miss Agnes Barnett, daughter of Rev. J M Barnett, of Washington, Pa., were married on Thursday.

I Stacer, blinded by smoke, walked into a coke oven at Hecla, on Thursday, and was so terribly burned that he is not likely to survive.

Congressman L F Watson, of Warren, has subscribed $100 for the fund which is being raised to erect a new Roman Catholic Church at Oil City.

An international exhibition of postage stamps will be held in Vienna next year in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of their introduction.

An auctioneer at Bath, Me., disgusted at the low price offered for his goods, sarcastically put up a $5 bill, which was promptly bid off at $4.90.

Two hundred a day was the average number of tourists who ascended last month the Vesuvius Railway to look down into the mouth of the volcano.

Captain Nesbit, formerly of Indiana, Pa., for a few years past a resident of Dakota, having been burned out, frozen out and dried out a number of times, has returned to Indiana.

The discussion of the advisability of colonizing Vermont and New Hampshire with Scandinavian immigrants has directed attention to the fact that Maine made a successful venture of this kind 20 years ago.

The Jefferson City Tribune tells of a dog which followed a coon into a cave, where he became fast in a narrow aperture and was compelled to remain until he grew lean enough to get through, which required 12 days.

A resident of Murfreesboro, Tenn., presented a ticket issued in 1855 on the Nashville and Chattanoga Railroad the other day, and rode in a palace car on the same bit of pasteboard that would have secured him passage in one of the clumsy coaches of 34 years ago.

A somewhat new departure in building practice has been successfully made in Germany. This is the wholesale manufacture of mortar of the best quality to be sold to small builders and private individuals. Some 2,000,000 barrels were thus sold in Berlin last year.

On Sunday last a large company of the descendants of Mrs. Daniel Wise, of Chester, Eaton county, Mich., met at her home to celebrate her 100th birthday anniversary. She has had 10 children, 86 grandchildren, 25 great grandchildren and 14 great-great grandchildren.

MR. FIELD, the new Philadelphia postmaster, has stationed a policeman at the window for ladies to see that they suffer no intrusion or insult. The local papers declare that Mr. Field has put his foot down "against ogling the ladies," and has determined that ladies shall be made to feel that they can visit the building "without the annoyance from lovers and mashers." Only recently a Philadelphia paper asserted that by far the larger part of the drop letter business there was for immoral purposes.

—While Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company was playing to a crowded house in Johnstown Tuesday night a fire broke out and a panic ensued. In the rush to escape eleven persons were killed outright and about thirty injured—four seriously. There were about six hundred in the house when the fire was discovered.

—It is now to be hoped that sugar will soon be reduced in price as Claus Spreckles has started his mammoth sugar refinery at last, and his sole aim and desire is to "bust the trust" and give us the sweets at a considerate margin above cost. Here's to the success of the mammoth enterprise.

A LONDON genius has patented an automatic savings bank. It is highly spoken of as a unique and perfectly safe arrangement. It is not the lack of banks that is afflicting the majority of people in England and America. It is the wherewith to deposit in them.

Our Story Teller.

A LONDON LOVER.

Evening World.

I am Hatty Hyde, an old maid—or at least not a young one—and, intend to remain so. But I came very near getting married last Spring, and I'll tell you how it happened.

I am 35, and not absolutely ugly, at least when I look in the glass I see reflected there a good fresh complexion, sparkling hazel eyes and an abundance of brown hair. I might have married two or three times, only I wasn't really in love. I dare say you don't believe this, but I can show the letters of declaration up in my writing-desk now—old 'Squire Pease, Rev. Mr. Poppelchorne and Dr Richford. So there!

But when Clarence Reymond, barrister, came down to spend the vacation with his aunt, Mrs. Richford—you see, the doctor married, after all, a wife much more suitable in point of mature years than I could have been, and I didn't care, not I—I must confess to a little womanly flutter around the heart, just the hero of romance that I had always dreamed about.

'Hatty,' said Mrs. Richford—we were quite confidential friends, you see, and called one another Hatty and Pamela, and borrowed each others books, and all that sort of thing—'Hatty, I think Clarence rather fancies you.'

'Do you?' said I, feeling the tell-tale blushes come into my face, and my heart begin to thump beneath the pretty lace tucker of Valenciennes and pink ribbon that I had taken to wearing every day.

'I am certain of it,' said Mrs. Richford, 'and how nice it will be to have you for a cousin!'

That evening Clarence asked me if I would marry him, and of course I said 'Yes.'

It was very nice to be engaged. He gave a lovely cameo ring, choicer and more antique than any diamond could have been—it had been his mother's ring, he said—and he repeated the most delicious poetry and vowed that it expressed the very sentiments of his heart. And we had wanderings in the cool, fern-scented woods, and moonlight talks on the veranda, and I began to wonder whether I should be married in white satin or a dove-colored dress.

One evening, just after Clarence had returned to his unavoidable engagements in town, Uncle Nathan was one of those kind of people, of whom we are apt to ask, in common with mosquitos and flies: "Why were they ever created?"

He was a venerable old gentleman, with long silver hair that fell over the collar of his bottle-green coat and cloth gaiters that irresistably reminded one of a black pussy cat, and he took snuff and talked through his nose.

"Harriet," said Uncle Nathan, is this true?"

"All this fol-de-rol about you being engaged to a man ten years younger than yourself. Harriet! Harriet! I thought you had better sense!"

"It's only five years, Uncle Nathan," said I, pouting. "And I suppose I can get engaged without sending to my relations for a permit."

"Harriet, this is not a subject to be flippant about," said Uncle Nathan. You may depend upon it, that this young man is a mere fortune-hunter. You have property, Harriet, and he has found it out."

"Uncle!" I cried, starting up, "I will not listen tamely to such aspersions on the character of one who——"

"My dear, my dear, don't get excited," said the intolerable old gentleman, tapping upon the lid of his silver snuff-box. "You are not a child, Harriet, nor yet a sentimental school-girl. Let's talk the matter calmly over.

"I decline to discuss it, sir," was my dignified reply. 'My mind is made up, and no amount of meddling interference will ever induce me to alter it.'

So my Uncle Nathan went away, silver hair, snuff-box, pussy gaiters and all, and I sat down to make a memorandum of the things I should require for my wedding outfit.

For I had resolved not to buy my things at the little shops in Buttercup Hollow, but to make an especial journey to London on that business. Ah, the delight of revelling over counters full of choice filmy laces, billows of bridal silk, oceans of tulle—it brought the color to my cheek only to think of it And, besides, was it not necessary that Clarence's wife should have all that custom required? I didn't care for myself so much, but I was determined not to disgrace Clarence.

So one radiant September day, when the sky was as blue as the bluest ribbon and the very leaves hung motionless in the yellow atmosphere like little ships at anchor in a sea of gold, I took the early train from Buttercup Hollow, with a purse full of money puttoned in to an under-pocket of my polonaise, for I had read all sorts of horrid stories about pickpockets, and didn't mean to part with my crisp bank notes except for value received. I felt a little fluttered at first, and scarcely ventured to look round me, for it seemed as if everybody must know that I was going to buy my wedding outfit.

If I attempt to tell you anything about the adventures of that day, I know I shan't succeed. Women could perhaps understand how I felt in the fairyland of those great circles of fashion that exist only in London. I bought the wedding dress, white reps silk and a veil of tulle, suspended from a garland of orange blossoms; and I selectad a blue silk, and a peach colored silk, a maroon silk, and—dear me! what is the use of cataloguing them all Other girls have been brides-elect before me, and they'll know just how it all was. And as for those that haven't just let 'em wait until their turn comes

And then, as the sun began to decline on its westering way I felt excessively and unromantically hungry.

"Is there a nice ladies' restaurant near here?" I asked.

And one of the shopmen went with me to the door to point out a glittering establishment, with its windows full of delicacies. I entered and sat down feeling very much as if I were an imposter, and ordered mock turtle soup, venturing meekly to look around a little after the wait had skirmished away. Dickens says that waiters never walk, and Dickens is always right. And then, for the first time I noticed a superbly dressed young lady one or two tables beyond, in lovely hat, with a long lilac willow plume, and hair like a shower of gold.

'Oh, how pretty she is!' thought I. 'How proud her lover must be of her!'

And I leaned the least bit in the world forward to see the young man in question.

Good Heavens, it was my Clarence!

And as I sat staring completely concealed from his ken by the golden hair and the lilac willow plume, I could hear light, peculiar laugh.

'You wouldn't have me yourself, Kate?' said he. 'You have only yourself to blame for it.'

'That's no reason you need throw yourself away,' pouted the lady.

'She's a desperate old maid,' said Clarence. 'Old as the hills, and twice as antiquated. But she's got money. A man in my position has got to look out for money, you know, Kate. Would you like to see her photograph?'

And then the two heads were close together for an instant, and the young lady's rippling laugh mingled with Clarence's mellow tones.

'The idea of carrying such a thing as that next to your heart!' said she.

'It does seem rather outrageous, don't it?' said he. 'But when we're once married all that sort of thing will be over. I'll see that she finds her level.'

'Yes, when!' thought I, now thoroughly disenchanted. And I got up and hurried out of the restaurant, nearly stumbling in my haste over the waiter, bearing on a silver tray my mock-turtle soup.

"I—I've changed my mind!" said I, flinging a coin toward him—to this day I don't know whether it was a shilling or a sovereign. 'Never mind the soup!'

I took the next train to Buttercup Hollow, and wrote a scathing note to Clarence the same evening. Do you want to know what was in it? Of course like all women's letters, the best part of it was in the postscrip.

"Our engagement is at an end. H. H.

"P. S.—The next time you examine ladies photographs in a crowded restaurant it might be well to examine your neighbors."

Clarence had some sense after all. He never came near me with useless apologies. I gave the wedding dress to little Amy Miller, who was to be married in October, and couldn't afford a trousseau. I suppose I shall wear out the blue and the peach color and maroon in time. Oh! I forgot to say that Mrs. Richford was very angry. It seemed that Clarence had promised to pay her a hundred pounds that he had barrowed of her, when he had got hold of my money. And I am thankful, from the bottom of my heart, that I still remain—Hattie Hyde.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. H C Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says; "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at W C Keplinger & Co's Drugstore.

The Advice Given by Greely to a Foolish Young Man.

Youth's Companion.

Horace Greeley had the reputation of being a practical philanthropist, and his advice was sought by hundreds of strangers, whose only excuse for intruding upon him was that they needed counsel, and that he had the brains that could advise them.

One day, while he was writing an important letter in his office, a boy, 15 years old, entered the room, and, standing near the door and behind the editors chair, said, "Mr. Greely, I have come to ask your advice."

"Say on," answered the editor, without stopping his pen or even glancing at the boy.

"The only relative I have here," continued the boy, 'is my sister. I have been boarding with her, and she let me have board so cheap that I could earn money enough to pay her, and have something left to buy my clothes. Now I have quarreled with her, and am boarding at another place, where they charge all I can earn for my board,—not so good as I had at my sister's—and I have nothing left to pay for my clothes. What shall I do?"

"Is your sister married?" asked Mr. Greely, without looking up or stopping his pen.

"Yes, sir."

"Is she a respectable woman?"

"Certainly, sir."

"Go straight to your sister and tell her that you are ashamed of yourself, and ask for forgiveness. If she will take you, go back and live with her, and after this remember that if your own sister is not your friend, you will not be likely to find any friend in New York City."

The boy departed without another word, and Mr. Greely had not even seen him, so engrossed was he with his writing. This poor boy did not personally know Mr. Greely, but, being in distress, sought him out in a city of several hundred thousand people as the man to give him good advice.

"It was a higher compliment than I had ever before seen conferred upon anyone," writes the Hon. Eli Thayer, who was present at the interview, and reports it in his "History of the Kansas Crusade."

"Veni, Vidi, Vici".

The Exposition is closed until October next. We saw it; it was great, being in its infancy, but we saw enough to convince ourselves of the fact that enterprise, such as displayed there, should not be passed by without some comment. But we still wonder why it was that only one whole-sale liquor house was so boldly represented. You could see its pyramid of bottles from any part of the great building. It was the prettiest display there. Max Klein has proved to the public that he wants to be seen. His "Silver Age" rye whiskey has now such a well earned reputation that he is proud of it and he wants every-body to see it. His goods are pure and reliable You can have his Silver Age at $1.50 per full quarts. His Guckenheimer, Finch, Overholt or Gibson at $1.00 per quart, or 6 quarts for $5.00. Send for his price list and mention this paper. His address is

MAX KLEIN,

What the Cows Give Us.

Holstein Friesian Register.

American dairy interests are startlingly enormous. They represent a total investment of several times the entire bank capital which is a little less than $971,000,000, while the dairy interests amount to more than $3,000,000,000. Of course our readers cannot swallow such frightful figures in a lump, and we will, therefore, arrange them in several smaller but still heroic doses. The number of milch cows is estimated at 21,000,000. They give each an average of 350 gallons of milk annually. This would make an aggregate milk production of 7,350,000,000 gallons, a miniature ocean, a fair sized Niagara. Four thousand millions are used for cheese, and the remaining 2,650,000,000 pass through the adulterating hands of the milkman and grocer, and down the throats of 60,000,000 men, women and babies in this land of freedom. The quantity of butter manufactured and used is about 1,350,000,000 pounds, and of cheese 6,500,000 pounds. The value of our dairy products for the last year was nearly $500,000,000. This is $20,000,009 more than the value of our annual wheat yield; while it closely approximates that of our corn crop, which is the most valuable of our farm products. To support this immense dairy herd 100,000,000 acres of pasture land are required, worth $250,000,000. It is easy enough to see, therefore, that 4,000,000 farmers in this country are an important element of our national welfare and prosperity.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, will remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. —Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers.—For cure of Headache, Constipation and indigestion try Electric Bitters—entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.—Price 50 cts. and $1.00 per bottle at W C Keplinger & Co's Drugstore.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

HEIGHT OF THE AURORA.—Interesting particulars concerning recent attempts to measure the height of the aurora have been given to the Royal Danish Academy by M. Adam Paulsen. At Godthaab, with two theodolities 4 miles apart, the height of different auroral was found to range from ½ mile to 40 miles; near Cape Farewell, with a baseline of about ¾ mile, the calculations ranged from 1 to 10 miles; and at Spitzbergen, with a base of about ½ mile, the results were from ½ mile to 18 miles. In earlier observations, Flogel estimated the height of several auroras at from 90 to 310 miles, Reimann found a height for one aurorae of at least 500 miles and Nordenskjold placed the mean height of auroras at about 125 miles; while Semstrom observed auroras as low as one thousand feet, and Hildebranson saw them below the clouds. M. Paulsen infers that the aurora only appears at considerable height in the temperate zone, while in the auroral zone proper the phenomenon is generally produced in the lower atmosphere.

ELECTRICITY DIRECT FROM WORK.—The accomplishment of a hitherto apparently impossible feat—that of transforming mechanical work directly into electricity—is claimed by Prof. Braun, of Tubingen. He winds nickel wire into spirals, and as each spiral is elongated or compressed a current of considerable strength is generated. This is increased by putting a number of spirals in circuit. Such positive results have been obtained that the experimentor is hopeful of constructing a useful generator on this principle.

PHOSPHORESCENT INFECTION.—The curious discovery has been made that the phosphorescence frequently exhibited by the crustacea is infectious. A French naturalist, M. Girard lately traced the phosphorescent light in Talitrus and other crustacea to bacteria in the muscles, which showed signs of disease. On inoculating healthy individuals, the same luminous appearance was produced. The disease runs a regular course, and the crustacea died in three or four days the phosphorescence lasting a little after death.

THEORY OF HYPNOTISM.—Dr. Pinel, of Paris, has found that hypnotic patients obey the phonograph as readily as the living speaker. He therefore discards the theory of animal magnetism, and believes that the real cause of the phenomena manifested in the few "sensitives" is a disordered mental state.

INDESTRUCTIBLE LITERATURE.—Fire-proof and time-proof books, with leaves and covers of sheets of asbestos, and printing in gold and silver letters, have been suggested.

SCIENTIFIC FARMING.—The first agricultural experiment station, according to Prof. W. O. Atwater, of the United States Department of Agriculture, was established at a little German village near Leipsic in 1851. In 1856 there were five, in 1861 fifteen, in 1866 thirty, and to-day there are more than one hundred experiment stations and kindred institutions in the countries of Europe. The first agricultural experiment station in America was established at Middletown, Ct., in 1875. There were four in operation in 1880, and in 1887 some seventeen in fourteen states. In the latter year Congress made the enterprise national by an appropriation of $15,200 per annum to each of the States and Territories having agricultural colleges or departments of colleges. This has led to increased activity and there are now forty-six, or, counting branches, fifty-seven, agricultural experiment stations in the United States. To support these forty-six stations, the National and State appropriations for the present year reach about $720,000 and over 370 trained men are employed.

ELECTRIC POWER.—The utilization and distribution of electric power are stated by Nr. G L Pope to have reached by far the greatest development in Switzerland and the United States. In the former country electricity is transmitted to considerable distances for large motors. At Solothurn a manufactory of machine screws is driven by an electric motor of 50 horse power, which derives its energy from a turbine wheel more than five miles away on a mountain stream. At Derendingen, a delaine mill of 36,000 spindles is driven by a pair of electric motors of 280 horse power, operated by a turbine wheel twelve miles distant. At Lucerne 120 horse power is similarly carried half a mile, and 250 horse power a quarter of a mile. In the United States no electric motor of more than 60 horse power is known to Mr. Pope, but there are as many as 6000 small motors in use, a favorite size being 10 horse power. It is predicted that in cities electric motors will soon practically supplant the steam engines of less than 50 horse power.

A REMARKABLE TRADE.—The abundance of remains of the mammoth is almost incredible Middendorfi reckoned that at least 100 pairs of tusks had been put upon the market yearly during the last two centuries, and from personal observation Nordenskjold is inclined to regard the estimate as too small. It thus appears that in the recent modern trade the tusks of more than 20,000 of these animals of past ages have been collected.

A MILITARY NOVELTY.—A vegetable cartridge-shell, which is entirely consumed in firing, has been brought out in France. The cartridge has scarcely half the weight of one with a metal shell, the cost is considerably less, and the inconvenience of removing the shell after each shot is avoided.

ONE TOUCH OF HUMAN NATURE.

An Exhibition to Make one Laugh at and Blush for his Fellow Creatures.

New York Sun,

There was a dozen passengers on a Broadway car the other rainy day who noticed a large, showily dressed man get aboard at the corner of Seventeenth. He had a gold-headed silk umbrella, and he leaned it against the front door and sat down. When the car got down to Wall street the large man suddenly rose up and hurried out of the car, never thinking of his umbrella. Then human nature began to show itself. A young man with a loud suit of clothes changed his seat from rear to front to get nearer the prize. A solid woman with a bandbox pushed a boy along to bring herself nearer. A man on the other side, who had been busy with his paper, now folded it up and fixed his eye on the umbrella. A shop girl who seemed to be out on an errand, cast covetous eyes, and thought of the swell she could cut over the other girls if she had that particular piece of personal property. An old man with a prominent nose finally observed in subdued tones:

"I live next door to Johnson, and I'll return him his umbrella."

"Johnson!" exclaimed the young man in the loud suit. "Why, that's our superintendent, and as I am going right to the office, I'll carry it to him."

"Seems to me he's my grocer, but, I won't be sure of it," remarked the solid woman. However, I'm an honest woman, and it will be safe with me."

"Look here!" exclaimed the man with the paper. "You're a nice crowd, I must remark. I was just laying low for you. The gent is my brother, and I'd like to see some of you try to walk off with his umbrella!"

This settled all but the shop girl. She turned white and red, moved about uneasily, and finally decided it was now or never. She suddenly rose up, walked to the end of the car, picked up the umbrella, and tiptoed her way to the door and passed out.

"Thank you, miss!"

It was a large, showily dressed man, who was standing on the platform with his hand extended.

"Don't mention it!" snapped the girl in reply, as she turned over the property and dropped off.

And then everybody chuckled and slapped himself on the back to think he had been wise enough to let the umbrella alone.

BIG THINGS IN THE WORLD.

The largest empire in the world is that of Great Britain,

The most extensive cavern is the Mammoth cave in Edmonson county, Kentucky.

The Chinese wall is the largest wall in the world. It was built by the first emperor of the Tain dynasty, about 220 B. C. as a protection against Tartars.

The largest body of fresh water on the globe is Lake Superior. It is 460 miles long, 160 miles wide at its greatest breadth, and has an area of 3,000 square miles.

The largest inland sea is the Caspian, lying between Europe and Asia. Its greatest length is 700 miles, its greatest breadth 270 miles, and its area 156,800 square miles.

The largest suspension bridge in the world is the one between Brooklyn and New York. The length of the main span is 1595 feet 6 inches. The entire engih of the bridge is 5989 feet.

The largest bell in the world is the bell of Moscow, at the foot of the Kremlin. Its circumference at the bottom is nearly 68 feet and its height is 21 feet. Its weight has been computed to be 443,772 pounds.

The largest tunnel in the world is that of St. Gothard, on the line of railroad between Lucerne and Milan. The summit of the tunnel is 900 feet beneath the surface of Andermatt, and 6,000 feet beneath the peak of Kastelhorn of the St. Gothard group.

The largest library is the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris, founded by Louis XIV. It contains 1,400,000 volumes, 300,000 maps and charts, and 150,000 coins and medals. The collections of engravings exceeds 1,300,000, contained in some 10,000 volumes.

A cast steel gun weighing 235 tons has just been shipped by the Messrs. Krupp from Hamburg for Cronstadt The caliber of the gun is 13½ inches, the barrel is 40 feet in length, its greatest diameter being 62½ feet. The range of the gun is over eleven miles and it will fire two shots per minute, each shot costing between £250 and £350.

When the locomotive runs into a herd of cattle there is generally an addition to the rolling stock on the road.

At a recent colored sociable in Ohio buckshot constituted the principal refreshment. Everybody got plenty.

A baby fell on one of Barnum's keepers the other day, and the man's wife is a widow. It was a baby elephant.

The difference between a sailor and a pugilist is that one is lashed to the mast, and the other mashed to the last, or ought to be.

Again a man has been shot by another who mistook him for a deer. A man is often shot for thinking someother man's wife is a dear.

Why is a lawyer who is conducting a disputed will case like a trapeze performer? Because he flies through the heir with the greatest of fees.

"Young ladies and elephants attain their growth at eighteen," says the New York World. Yes, but here analogy ceases. One trunk is an enough for an elephant.

In view of the defalcation of the congressional sergeant-at-arms, it wouldn't be a bad idea to take our navy in of nights. Some one might happen along and elope with it.

A scientific journal says that the inhabitants of the Sandwich Islands have discovered trichinae in an American missionary. This is a sad blow at one of our leading exports.

There is a man in Lock Haven so close that when he attends church he occupies the pew farthest from the pulpit, to save the interest on his money while the collectors are passing the plate for contributions.

It is understood that the New York gentlemen who have been asked to become president of the World's Fair will hold a mass meeting if they can find a building big enough to hold them without crowding.

A man in Centre county, who suffered intense pain from inflammatory rheumatism, recently tried the Jsmyth-Canell plaster cure, and has not experienced a particle of pain for two weeks. Only a few days ago he left his bed for the first time in two years and visited the cemetery. He rode in a hearse.

One of the African chiefs now on exhibition in New York winked at a drug clerk when calling for a glass of hot soda water the other day. Such little evidences as this should convince the most skeptical that our missonary work among the Africans is not without some marked results. Native instinct never taught the chieftain this civilized trick.

Legal Dont's About Wills.

Boston Budget.

Don't have anything uncertain in a will.

Don't mention people by their nicknames.

Don't let a person interested be a witness,

Don't neglect to declare it to be your last will and testament.

Don't make a new will unless you revoke or destroy the old one.

Don't make a will that does not provide for children that may be born.

Don't try to force a wife to accept certain property instead of dower.

Don't neglect to make your witnesses write their names and addresses.

Don't fail to specify which one is meant when two bear the same name.

Don't add a codicil unless you execute it in the same way as the original will.

Don't forget that, if a woman, your marriage will invalidate a will already made.

Don't allow a minor to will away personal property unless 18 if male and 16 if female.

Don't imagine that the contents of a lost will may not be proved by good evidence.

JAS. H DOBBINS, P. M.

—Adjuiant General Hastings is here to-day. He is one of the prominent candidates for Governor and stands a good chance to secure the nomination. He is an affable gentleman and his management of the buisness at Johnstown, after the flood, shows him to be a man of good judgment. He is of the right material to make a Governor.—Wednesday's Indiana Pa., Messenger.

A L DY'S PERFECT COMPAN ION.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, a new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in Childberth, but results from causes easily understood and overcome. it clearly proves that any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness' swelled limbs, and all other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians everywhere as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out: it will save you great pain, and possibly your life. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars, testimonials, and confiden tial letter sent in sealed er velope. Ad dress FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland. 13t. n. 15.

Fashion Notes.

Green in all shades is popular this season.

The yoke bodice is the favorite for white wash goods.

Feathers are worn equally with flowers as a decoration for hats.

In many cases parasols match the prevailing tint of the toilet.

All gold jewelry is more fashionable than before for several years.

Maize or cork color is reviye, among other fashionable shades of yellow.

Even gingham dresses have parasols made up of the material of the gown.

It is quite common now to see ladies without either bustle or reeds in the dress skirt.

Pongee in natural puff colors is as popular as ever for summer gowns and traveling wraps.

Pompadour foulards rival other printed stuffs for summer morning and afternoon toilets.

Self Conceit Made Silly.

Youth's Companion.

It is not easy to tell a self conceited man how he is regarded, but now and then someone proves equal to the task.

During the Civil War a man, great in his own eyes, was, by some influence, appointed a Brigadier General. His sense of his own importance was at once greatly increased. He could hardly speak of anything else but his new dignity. Meeting a "home-spun" Yankee one day he accosted him thus:

"Well, Jim, I suppose you know I have been appointed Brigadier General?'

'Yes,' said Jim, 'I heerd so.'

'Well, what do folks say about it?'

'They don't say nothin',' replied truthful James. 'They jest laugh.'

Why an Editors Ears Burn.

If an editor omits something, people say he is lazy; if he reports things as they are people are mad; if he smooths down the rough points he is bribed; if he doesn't furnish his readers with jokes, he is prosy; if he does, he is rattledheaded and lacks stability; if he lets wrong go unmentioned he is a coward; if he indulges in personalities, he is a blackguard, and if he does not, his paper is dull and insipid; if he has a wife people say he abuses her, and if he has none they say he can't get one. Verily, the editor is a much abused man, notwithstanding his goodness.—Ex.

Backing up Judge Furst.

The following resolution was adopted by the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Philipsburg, Friday evening, Nov. 29th.

Whereas, The Philipsburg WCTU rejoice in the action of Judge Furst in ordering that all pupils and youth under the age of 16 years should remain absent from the Court during the murder trial of W. S. Hopkins; therefore Resolved. That the most cordial and sincere thanks of the mothers of Centre county are due to his Honor for this wise and Curistian act.

TO ADVERTISERS!

HOW TO GET THE MOST SERVICE FOR THE MONEY!

The Advertiser who would be willing to pay twenty-five cents for every family who could be "educated" up to the value of his goods would thus devote $3,000,000 to educate the 12,000,000 families which make up the 60,000,000 of the United States. This sum would do the business thoroughly in a year, for it is sufficient to pay for the insertion of a full column in every issue of every publication, and for resetting the matter, making it new in every issue of each separate publication. We will receive and execute the contract.

$5,000 One of the most successful Advertisers we ever had always ordered his advertisements in this way, "Get the best service you can for me for $5,000," leaving every detail to us. We were thus enabled to say to a Publisher, if you put this in at a large reduction from your rate it will be no criterion for further transactions. It was a surprise to find ourselves so often able to contract for the insertion of that particular advertisement at half rates, in papers which would not permit us to OFFER their columns at a penny's deviation from a printed schedule. The advertising rates of one New York paper are double those of another which has twice the circulation of the first. Similar discrepancies are not uncommon. The advertisement intrusted to us to be placed in accordance with our judgment often does double service for half the money. A dollar for twenty-five cents.

$1,000 If we are given authority to insert advertisements to a limited amount, in such mediums as ofier inducements which seem to us specially favorable, we shall not abuse the confidence reposed in us, and shall render statements of whatever is done (if anything) from day to day. When TRUSTED with the placing of an advertisement, we are put upon honor, and are bound in honor to give the best service possible for the money to be used.

$500 Leading Newspapers, especially the leading Agricultural Newspapers, frequently issue large special editions (of twenty, fifty, a hundred, or even five hundred thousand copies,) and solicit advertisement orders from us on terms which would often be accepted by our patrons if there was time to invite attention to the matter; but the question must generally be decided before there would be time to write and receive a reply, and often the case cannot be fully stated within the limits of a letter.

$250 Prepare a small advertisement and send with check for $250, or any other sum. The practice of asking the Agent to name his papers in advance compels him to name such as are well known, otherwise there is reason to suspect that his judgment is biased;—and the best papers do not like to have their rates quoted below their schedule.

$100 The advertiser who sends his advertisements asking for the best service possible for one hundred dollars, will often get from five to fifty per cent more service for his money, than he would had he required us to tell him in advance exactly what service we would promise; for when an estimate has been given its plan and specifications must, in a general way at least, control the advertising to be done: It ties the Agent's hands and prevents his giving his patrons TO-DAY a better service than he could have promised yesterday, because yesterday the opportunity had not presented itself: to-morrow it may have passed! Some publications are used more economically on contracts for a single issue; in others insertion for a month may be had as cheaply as for a single week but in furnishing an estimate in advance, if the Agent attempts to go into details, his correspondence becomes voluminous and the advertiser confused.

$50. If you are in the habit of occasionally inserting a small advertisement in a few papers, investing a few dollars and carefully noting the result; we desire you to make trial of our Advertising Bureau, sending us the advertisement and the money, leaving the selection of the papers to us, and judging of the service rendered by results rather than by names, circulation claims or prices. To make up careful estimates calls for much work. It don't pay to make them indiscriminately for every applicant. If such estimates as are asked for were always given the Advertiser who wished to expend $50 would frequently find himself in posession of a scheme which it would cost $500 or possibly $5,000 to carry out.

$10. We devote all necessary care to placing small orders for Advertising:—even the smallest! Time is saved by sending check with the order. Often the Advertiser is not possessed of sufficient information on the subject to enable him to judge of the merits of an estimate for advertising, and he decides by the footings of the figures whether he will or will not do the work. Yet the estimate binds the Agent and makes it improper for him to make any variation in its specifications, however much his judgment may point to material changes which ought to be made. This is specially liable to be the case when the order comes a considerable time after the estimate was made.

THE WEEKLY PRESS

For 1890 will be as much better than THE WEEKLY PRESS for 1889 as we can make it. With every issue during the new year it will be

AN EIGHTY-COLUMN PAPER.

Each of the fifty-two numbers will contain ten pages, or eighty columns, with a total for the year of 520 pages, or 4160 columns. Thus it will be as "big as a book," as the saying is.

A PAPER OF QUALITY.

Not only will it be as big as a book, but it will be a paper of quality as well as of quantity. It will contain the pick of everything good.

A PAPER OF VARIETY.

The idea is that THE WEEKLY PRESS shall be both clean and wideawake. It will discuss all subjects of public interest and importance. The writers on its list include Julia Ward Howe, E. Lynn Linton, Prof. N. S. Shaler, Louis Pasteur, William Black, Edmund Gosse, Edgar W. Nye, Opie P. Read, and, indeed, almost every popular writer of note in this country and quite a number of distinguished writers abroad. In fiction, an attraction of the year will be "Esther," by H. Rider Haggard; another serial story, already engaged, will be "Come Forth," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.

A FARMER'S PAPER.

The best conducted agricultural paper in America. Illustrations.

A WOMAN'S PAPER.

The Women's page of The Weekly Press is alone worth the subscription price. Its illustrations are attracting attention everywhere.

A CHILDREN'S PAPER.

The special department for children is now addressed to the school children and school teachers of America. Let the children join the new Rainbow Club just started. Let them compete for the prizes—all in bright, wholesome, instructive books.

IMPORTANT CLUBBING ARRANGEMENT.

By special arrangement with all the leading weekly and monthly periodicals of America, subscriptions are taken for any one or more of these journals in connection with The Weekly Press at such low rates as virtually makes our great family paper FREE to the subscriber for one year.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Mrs. Scott-Lord, Mrs. Harrison's Sister, Dies Suddenly.

SHE HAD LONG BEEN ILL.

An Immediately Fatal Termination Was Not Expected, However—Irrigation of Arid Lands—Who Is Responsible for Silcott—In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Scott-Lord, sister of Mrs. Harrison, died at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Scott-Lord had been ill for several months, and her condition was such on Friday that Mrs. Harrison could not accompany the president to Chicago.

Nobody outside of the family in the house where she was stopping was present when Mrs. Scott-Lord died. It was known that the case was well nigh hopeless, but still her death was sudden, and was not expected so soon. Mrs. Harrison and Dr. Scott are now at the house with the remains. No arrangements for the funeral have yet been made.

The Beginning of Her Sickness.

She was attacked with a severe form of malaria last summer, which resulted in a complete breaking down of her system. Mrs. Lord's death will necessarily occasion a complete change in the arrangements for the social session at the White House during the winter.

Mrs. Scott-Lord has been a widow for some years, and, before the arrival of the Harrisons at the White House, she made her home in Washington with her venerable father, Rev. J. W. Scott, who held a position in the interior department. The old gentleman later went to live with his other daughter, Mrs. Harrison, at the executive mansion. Mrs. Lord had never mingled much in society, but was a bright, intelligent lady, with a large circle of warm friends.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Mr. Chandler introduced in the senate a bill to amend the laws relative to the elective franchise. Mr. Turpie called up his resolution in relation to trust penalties, and addressed the senate at considerable length on that subject.

Mr. Evarts introduced a bill to provide for the celebration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America, by a world's fair, to be held at New York, and asked that it lie on the table for reference to the proper committee when appointed.

At 1:25 the senate went into secret session, and at 1:35 p. m. adjourned.

The senate in secret session confirmed the nomination of Robert P. Porter to be superintendent of the census; Commissioner Groff and Assistant Commissioner Stone, of the general land office, and Recorder Townsend, of the general land office.

Mr. Oakes' Irrigation Plan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—T. F. Oakes, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, was in the city last week accompanied by General Solicitor McNaught and General Manager Hanaford, to discuss with western members of the senate and house a plan to be laid before congress at this session for the irrigation of the arid lands of the west. Mr. Oakes proposes that congress shall give to each of the western states the arid lands within its borders.

The Northern Pacific will lend its aid to irrigation companies, to be formed under authority of the individual states for the improvement of these lands. The proposition to take the irrigation problem out of the hands of the general government is based on the claim that a proposition to appropriate the millions necessary to carry out the scheme of irrigation will meet with strong opposition in the east, and also on the claim that congress will take fifteen years to accomplish what state legislatures might do in five.

The Silcott Defalcation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Treasurer Huston says, in regard to the effort being made to fix upon him a portion of the responsibility for the loss of the funds stolen by Cashier Silcott, that the statute commands him in the most emphatic manner to honor the speaker's certificate when presented.

As to the criticism that he paid the November salary of members several days before it was due, he said that this had been the custom for years, for so long a period, indeed, that, though there were clerks in his office who had been there for forty years, they did not remember a time when it was not done.

Mr. Forrest Still Talking.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Mr. Forrest resumed his address to the jury in the Cronin trial. He began by showing the jury the map of the streets of Lake View and showing that the natural and easiest route for a driver of a wagon wishing to go from the Carlson cottage to the catch basin where the body was found would be to go over Ashland and Belmont avenues and then go east. Therefore, said the attorney, there was a doubt that the wagon seen coming down Fullerton avenue ever was at or came from the Carlson cottage. The blood question was then considered, and Mr. Forrest called attention to the evidence of how mental predisposition may and often does influence a witness' testimony. After referring to the expert testimony in regard to the blood, Mr. Forrest went on to claim that the state had failed to prove that there was any human blood at all in the Carlson cottage.

New York State Trades Assembly.

ALBANY, Dec. 11.—The twenty-fourth annual convention of the State Trades Assembly was called to order at 10:55 in the morning, in the court room of the city hall, by Thomas J. Dowling. Mr. Dowling said that in calling the convention to order he would make no remarks, but after the committee on credentials had completed its labor the officers would make their report to the convention. On motion of Mr. See, the chair appointed a committee on credentials as follows: P. J. Doyle, Albany; William F. See, Rochester; John Phillips, Brooklyn; Frank W. Week, Binghamton; C. P. McCarthy, Auburn; William J. Barrs, New York, and W. J. Keough, Green Island. The convention then took a recess until 2 o'clock to enable the committee on credentials to complete their labors.

Oliver Johnson Dead.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 11.—Oliver Johnson, the old time abolitionist, died in a sanitarium on Columbia heights at 2:30 p. m. He had been ailing for some time. He was nearly 80 years old.

Two Men Blown to Pieces.

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 11.—A nitro-glycerine factory a mile and a half from this city exploded in the morning. Two men, named Woods and Medill, were blown to pieces.

TO TALK WITH THE GREAT FATHER.

Cheyenne Chiefs Start for Washington on a Visit to the President.

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 11.—Five of the big chiefs from the Cheyenne agency have started for Washington to confer with the president about the opening of the Sioux reservation. They are White Swan, Charger, Flying Bird, Crow Eagle and Brave Eagle. They will be accompanied by Agent McChesney. They say they intend to ask the great chief at Washington to bind himself never to take land from them again, and to leave them and their families in undisturbed possession of the remainder of their great hunting ground.

White Swan, the leader, has a big speech he proposes to make at Washington. It is also learned that the several tribes of Indians will appeal to the government to allow them a delegate, in one of their best orators, at congress during its sessions hereafter, so that he can explain the condition and needs of his people in cases where there will be legislation affecting them.

A dispatch from Tablequah, I. T., says: The committee appointed by Chief Mayes, of the Cherokee nation, to confer with the United States Indian commission, has sent a communication to the latter informing them that the Indians were ready to treat with the government for the sale of the Cherokee outlet. The request was made that the conference be held under the first section of the act under which the government commission was appointed, which empowers it to buy the outlet at a figure not higher than $3 per acre. If the commission, said the communication, did not see fit to negotiate on that basis, congress might be informed that the land could be had at $3 per acre. The government commission has not yet replied to the communication.

SHOT BY A BURGLAR.

Probable Murder in Scotia, N. Y.—A Suspicious Character Caught at Albany.

ALBANY, Dec. 11.—A special to The Union from Schenectady says: Early in the morning G. Fred Bechtel, of Scotia, across the flats from this city, was awakened by a noise in his store. Hastily dressing, he ran into the street, where he discovered four men with their arms laden with boxes of shoes. One of them was just emerging from the store door, and Bechtel fired at him. The burglar returned the fire, the ball lodging in the back of Bechtel's neck, inflicting what will probably prove a fatal wound.

An officer of the Central-Hudson railroad at West Albany discovered six men riding on a freight car. Having been notified of the crime at Scotia, he endeavored to effect their arrest. He captured one, but the man slipped away and the officer shot him in the fleshy part of the right leg, causing him to surrender. His companions escaped. The captured man gave his name as John Griffin. Two pairs of shoes were found in his possession, which he claims were given him by one of the men who escaped. Griffin has been held, and his companions are being sought.

Another Electric Tragedy in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The awful death of Western Union Lineman Feeks has been duplicated in almost all its horrible details in that of Lineman Peter Clausen. Clausen was at work on a pole at the corner of Third avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-sixth street. All at once he was seen to shudder convulsively, his pincers fell to the pavement and his hand dropped limply across a wire. His head fell forward until the chin was supported by another wire. Smoke rose from the hand which had held the pincers. While the man's body sank until it became more and more entangled in the wires, his arms and legs twitched, and his face worked convulsively. He must have died instantly. A great crowd gathered on the street below to witness the ghastly spectacle. The body hung on the wires forty-five minutes before it could be removed. The electric current which killed him is supposed to have been of about 2,000 volts power.

The Bookkeeper Ruined His Employers.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 11.—Thomas Savin, for six years bookkeeper for J. E. Dall & Co., dry goods commission merchants, is missing, and the firm assert that Savin has ruined them. Savin was also agent for B. B. & P. Knight, of Providence, R. I. He handled a large amount of money annually, but his employers cannot tell at the present time how much he has stolen, as he destroyed the stubs of his forged checks. Savin is 33 years old and married.

Mr. Tucker to Become General Manager.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—A Herald special from St. Louis says: It is reported upon reliable authority that Joseph F. Tucker, the assistant general manager of the St. Paul railway, will on the 1st prox. assume the general management of the Illinois Central. Mr. Tucker was at one time traffic manager of the Illinois Central, and left the service of the company on account of some misunderstanding with the general manager.

Tragedy in Caseville, Mich.

CASEVILLE, Mich., Dec. 11. — Richard Clark, aged 73 years, attempted to kill his son-in-law, Richard McKendrick, by shooting him. One ball took effect, and McKendrick is in a critical condition. Clark then, in the presence of a number of people, deliberately shot himself just above the right ear, and fell dead to the sidewalk. Family troubles are said to be the cause of the attempted murder and suicide.

Canadian Fishing Leases.

QUEBEC, Dec. 11.—The provincial government of Quebec has decided on Jan. 9 and 10 next as the dates upon which all existing fishing leases in the province are to be resold by public auction. Some of these leases are held by American sportsmen. The leases were all made to expire at the end of the last fishing season.

Jerome Park Gives It Up.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The Jerome Park Villa Site and Improvement company has decided to discontinue racing. Jerome park is to be cut up into lots and sold. Nearly $100,000 was lost on last season's racing, largely owing to the opening of the rival

LABOR MEN MEET.

Convention of the American Federation at Boston.

GOVERNOR AMES' SPEECH.

He Addresses the Delegates on the Relations Between the Worker and the Capitalist, and is Followed by Mayor Hart and Others.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—A large number of delegates was present at the opening of the American Federation of Labor in the common council chamber, City hall. The chamber is handsomely decorated with the Stars and Stripes, red, white and blue streamers, and with the banners and insignias of the various trades represented, tastefully arranged.

Shortly after 10 a. m. President Samuel Gompers rapped to order and dispatched a committee to notify Governor Ames and Mayor Hart that the convention had assembled. The entrance of these gentlemen was the signal for great applause, which continued until Governor Ames was introduced and addressed the convention.

Governor Ames' Speech.

The governor welcomed the delegates to Massachusetts, saying they could not have chosen a more appropriate place for their meeting. Speaking of the relations of capital and labor, he said there is no natural antagonism between them. Without capital labor is hampered and its results limited in those days of large operations, but without labor, capital becomes unproductive.

"In your discussions," said the governor, "I believe you will bear in mind that these relations are reciprocal and that to shift the center of power too far in either direction is to invite disaster."

With the expressed hope that whatever action the convention might take would promote the welfare of all sorts of men, the governor closed.

Mayor Hart Also Speaks.

Mayor Hart was introduced and made a brief speech welcoming the delegates to Boston and trusting that their deliberations would result beneficially to the country and to the cause of labor. He also referred to the eight hour movement, saying it seemed to him that it couldn't be confined to any one class alone, and the better we learn that we are one, that nobody can live unto himself alone, that civil society rises and falls with the rise and fall of its members, none excepted, the better it will be for all.

Welcomed to Boston by Mr. Foster.

Frank K. Foster, chairman of the joint reception committee of the city and state, addressed the convention in welcome on behalf of the organized labor of Boston and Massachusetts, extending the greeting of the brothers of this locality. He made an especial point of thanks to the governor for his hearty welcome of the delegates to Massachusetts, for which Governor Ames returned thanks in kind.

The governor and mayor then retired from the hall.

An address by President Gompers upon the benefits of organized labor followed, after which a committee on credentials was appointed, pending the report of which the convention took a recess.

Dom Pedro's Doubts.

LISBON, Dec. 11.—Dom Pedro visited the pyrotechnic school last evening and listened to various lectures with close attention. In conversation he expressed doubts that the new government of Brazil will add to the prosperity of the country, but declined to make any reference to the possibility of his formal abdication of his imperial rights. The Comte d'Eu and his wife, Princess Isabel, will pay a visit to the Duc de Montpensier at Madrid, after which they will return to Lisbon.

BRIEF MENTION.

The New York Presbytery has adopted the report of a committee on revision of the Westminster Confession. The report opposes any general alteration or revision, but recommends some changes.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company has sued John H. Inman, an ex-director of the company, for an accounting in the matter of purchasing the Pratt mines. Inman is alleged to have charged the company $2,500,000 more for the mines than he and his associates paid.

Mrs. Margaret Dilliard, who, with her companion, W. H. Bartholomew, plotted the murder of her husband, has been sentenced to be hanged at Easton, Pa., but, according to a promise made her counsel when she confessed, efforts will be made to secure a commutation of the sentence.

The Russian epidemic of influenza has spread over Germany, Austria and Hungary, and two cases are reported in London. Business in many places on the continent is almost suspended.

An Incident of Ranch Life.

Almost a score and a half years ago there went to the western states two brothers named Hoy, and who were prominently connected with the Hoys of Centre county. They started from here poor boys, went out there and by diligence and close attention to business succeeded in building for themselves quite a fortune until now they are worth a million of dollars or more. They both married and now have sons grown to manhood and it is of them this article speaks. Two brothers, A. A. and Henry Hoy, own claims in Wyoming territory and they are said to be the best equipped in way of buildings, machinery, etc., of any in that country.

A few weeks ago the Hoys left their home for their fall round up intending to spend the entire winter away from their homes. To make things sure they set a spring gun to protect their property They had not been gone many days when a marauder happened that way and attempted to break into the cabin. A load of shot in the groin was his reward and at last accounts it was thought it might prove fatal. To revenge this accident his comrades set fire to the Hoy ranch and burned everything in the accumulated savings of many years—to the ground. Such is life in the far west, and unfortunately the laws are such that no punishment can be meted out to the depredator.

That Little Tickling

In your throat, which makes you cough once in a while and keeps you constantly clearing your throat, arises from catarrh, and as catarrh is a constitutional disease the ordinary cough medicines all fail to hit the spot. What you need is constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many people who have taken this medicine for scrofula, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, and other troubles, have been surprised that it should cure this troublesome cough. But to know the actual cause of the cough is to solve the mystery. Many cases of consumption can be traced back to the neglect of some such slight affection as this. Consumption can be controlled in its early stages, and the effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla in purifying the blood, building up the general health, and expelling the scrofulous taint which is the cause of catarrh and consumption, has restored to perfect health many persons on whom this dreaded disease seemed to have a firm hold.

To make an intelligent test of this, try the following method: Hang a strip of leather in a bottle of Acme Blacking, and leave it there for a day or a month. Take it out and hang it up to dry and examine its condition carefully. We recommend ladies to make a similar test with French Dressing, and gentlemen with any liquid solution of Paste Blacking, or with liquid blacking that comes in stone jugs.

From Fremont, Nebraska.

I have had scrofula until it made my life a burden. I was inexpressibly miserable, sick, weak, sleepless, and unhappy; desiring that the short time which seemed to have been allotted to me on this earth would hasten to an end. I tried doctors' treatment and medicine, and travel, but none of these did any good, for the scrofula gradually grew worse. One physician, who I traveled far to see, and to whom I paid $150 gave up the case as hopeless after three weeks of treatment, and other as prominent physicians tried hard to cure it, but were equally as unsuccessful. I then gave up all other medicines, and took only Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) Four bottles of that medicine cured me, and for the past four years I have had as excellent health and I am as free from disease as anybody living. Words are inadequate to express my gratitude and favorible opinion of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.)"

The above is an extract from a letter written under date of July 18, 1889, by Mr. F. Z. Nelson, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Fremont, Nebraska.

His Child Got Well.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured my little boy of scrofula, from which he had suffered a long time. I had tried physicians and great quantities of other medicines without avail. A few bottles of S. S. S. did the work. He is now enjoying the best of health and has not had any symptoms of the disease for over a year. W. A. CLAYTON, Addie, N. C.

SNOW SHOE HEARD FROM.

A Goodly Budget of Newsy Paragraphs from the City on the Mountain.

SNOW SHOE, DEC. 10, 1889.

Rain and mud ! Nothing but rain and mud. There is some talk of changing the name of our little town from Snow Shoe to Mudshoe.

A. B. Leathers, that well known Granger from Mt. Eagle, brought a load of produce to Snow Shoe last Wednesday.

The funeral of Calvin Rankin took place last Wednesday afternoon. The attendance was very large. The services were conducted by Rev. Morton, of the Presbyterian church. Mr. Rankin was a loving husband, an indulgent father, a kind neighbor and a good citizen.

The hunters were quite successful last week. We saw two different parties pass through town with their wagons loaded with venison. Robert Watson captured another one on Monday of this week.

Last Thursday night, about 12 o'clock, the good people of Snow Shoe were awakened from their peaceful slumbers by the shrill whistle of Milton Peters' read engine. He had an ordinary two-horse wagon attached to it and after loading 50 bushels of coal at Gunsallus' bank, put on steam again and started for the Bald Eagle valley. He made the trip at night so that he would avoid meeting teams on the narrow mountain roads.

Mr. Irvin Grassmore, of Snow Shoe Intersection, who nas been working in Johnstown all summer, visited his Snow Shoe friends last Monday.

There will be a musical entertainment at the Presbyterian church next Saturday evening. Judging from the preparations being made it will be a grand success.

Charles Elder, of Williamsport, one of the most skilled taxidermists in the State, spent a few days at the Mountain House this week. Your correspondent was a school-mate of Charlie's before he thought of stuffing birds, beasts, etc.

J. D. Miller, of Snow Shoe, who had suffered lately with throat trouble, returned from Milton last Wednesday, after having an ulcer successfully cut from the inside of his throat by a Milton doctor.

G M Reeser has just finished the largest ice house in Snow Shoe township.

T B Budinger has completed a model flour and feed house. It is lined throughout with sheet iron in order to make it rat proof.

Last Friday afternoon a large rawbone individual, wearing an Indian chief outfit, marched through our streets playing a bag pipe. Some thought it was the angel, Gabriel, with his trumpet, while others claimed it was only the advance agent of Buffalo Bill's wild west show. He had imbibed too much Polinka and as he was crossing the railroad he slipped and down came the Indian Chief, the angel Gabriel, the advance agent and the bag pipe all on a pile in the mud. As soon as he recovered his perpendicular your correspondent interviewed him when he said he was a teacher of Irish dancing from Mill Hall.

John G Uzzle has now in operation one of the latest improved continuous Balers. It works like a charm and makes as handsome a bale of hay as any one generally sees.

Mrs. Mary Hinton has been very seriously ill for several days—slight hopes of her recovery being entertained.

Mrs. Anna Derrick, who has lived with the family of Jacob Harnish for several years, started Tuesday afternoon for Oskaloosca, Iowa.

Misses Alice Neff and Alice Heaton drove to Snow Shoe Saturday and spent a couple of days visiting Miss Clara Neff, who is keeping house for her brother, Dr. J W Neff.

Sobe and Beecher's teamsters were frightened out of a year's growth one day last week while feeding their teams. The upper part of the barn in which they had just put a car load of baled hay gave away. Men and horses escaped unhurt—but it was a narrow escape.

Rev. J W Bedford preached a missionary sermon at the M. E. church. The weather was very unpleasant and the congregation was small yet over eighteen dollars was raised.

About 100 coke ovens are now in operation at this place, and if the coke market continues favorable very probably more will be fired up.

W B Masters, of Clarence, is quite a hunter. He spent several days in the mountains last week. He says he can hunt as good as anyone but seldom captures anything.

Cold Waves

Are predicted with reliable accuracy, and people liable to the pains and aches of rheumatism dread every change to damp or stormy weather. Although Hood's Sarsaparilla is not claimed to be a positive specific for rheumatism, the remarkable cures it has effected show that it may be taken for this complaint with reasonable certainty of benefit. Its action in neutralizing the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of rheumatism constitutes the secret of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you suffer from rheumatism, give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial; it will do you good.

—The Y. M. C. A. reading room is now a very attractive place. All the leading daily and weekly newspapers are received there and it is the intention to put Judge and Puck on the tables, also. The library is filled with choice books and there are others being added constantly.

The Road Question.

OFFICE PENNSYLVANIA BOARD OF AGRICULTURE, HARRISBURG, Dec 11, 1889.

At the annual meeting of the State Board of Agriculture, to be held at Harrisburg, January 22d and 23d, 1890, the subjects of Roads, Road Construction, Road Repairs and Road Laws, will receive special attention, and one or more sessions will be devoted to their consideration. Numerous essays from practical writers will be read and discussed; Governor Beaver will address the meeting on the subject of the Roads and Road Laws of Pennsylvania; it is expected that the Commission recently appointed by the Governor and Legislature will be present and assist in the discussion. It is specially requested that all agriculture and other organizations interested will send delegates empowered to present their views; arrangements will be made by which such delegates, and all attending the meeting will receive the same rates of deduction in railroad fare and board as are accorded to members of the Board of Agriculture. All present will be invited to take part in the discussion. For further particulars address

THOS. J EDGE, Secretary,
Harrisburg, Penna.

If the gentleman whose lips pressed the lady's snowy brow and thus caught a severe cold had but used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, no doctor's bill would have been necessary.

Some genius proposes to introduce paper shirts. Wearing paper shirts means bearing rheumatism. With Salvation Oil however, paper shirts might still be a success. Price 25 cents.

How to Get Rich.

Earn money before you spend it.
Never play at any game of chance.
Drink no kind of intoxicating liquors.
Good character is above all things else.
Keep your own secrets—if you have any.
Never borrow—if you can possibly avoid it.
Always speak the truth—make few promises.
Keep good company or none—never be idle.
Keep yourself innocent if you would be happy.
Do not marry until you are able to support a wife.
When you speak to a person look him in the face.
Make no haste to be rich—if you would prosper.
Save when you are young to spend when you are old.
Avoid temptation—through fear you may not withstand it.
Never speak evil of any one—be just before you are generous.
Never run in debt unless you see plainly a way to get out again.
Small and steady gains give competency with tranquility of mind.
Good company and good conversation are the very sinews of virtue.
Your character cannot be essentially injured except by your own acts.
If any one speaks evil of you let your life be so that none will believe him.
When you retire at night think over what you have done during the day.
If your hands cannot be usefully employed attend to the cultivation of your mind.

The heathen part of the community of what is known as Dix Run was stirred up to a full knowledge of their depravity on last Sunday by Mr. Wm. Ebersole, the man sent to warn heathens of their danger. A young lady was so impressed with the conviction of her condition that she tramped through mud and water that she might see the teacher of divine faith.

Our old hunter, Mr. James Kunes, has made himself famous by killing a large bear. The young bruin was started at Grind Stone mountain, going north until it came to the mouth of Grind Stone hollow where Mr. Kunes & son stopped its traveling and ended its career. After it was skinned and dressed it tipped the beam at a little over 200 pounds. Mr. Kunes is an old practitioner at such business, having followed it the most of his life, and has always been very successful. He knows all the hooks and crooks of the rugged Alleghenies and has also traveled through the counties of Elk and Potter. He is a good citizen and it is hoped that his days may yet be many.

If anyone desires a good teamster they should write to Mr. Joe Bing, of Unionville. He has a great knack of hauling coal. For instance: He left town the other evening with a small load of coal to haul to Mr. Kunes. He got along nicely until he came to the up grade above the Messiah church when his horses refused to go any farther. Mr. Bing got a heavy club and went to work at the rate of a stroke every second for two solid hours; he then gave up that scheme. He walked up to the house and inquired for Mr. Kunes and was told he was not at home. He then went back, turned his team around and brought the coal to the school house at this place. Now don't you think Mr. B. is a man of energy to turn back when within four rods of the house? false horses notwithstanding. *

That Dowdy.

Homely girls will take heart after reading this delightful and sensible story. A girl, plain in face, and rather indifferent in her attire, is suddenly aroused to her defects, and, so far as in her power, resolves to amend them. Candid and guileless herself, she unexpectedly discovers that the husband whom she devotedly loves contemplates her with aversion, that she is really what a woman of honor most dreads—a despised wife. As he holds her thus in contempt, the question arises Why did he marry her? This is one of the mysteries of the romance, the heroine of which soon convinces her husband that while beauty is attractive, the charms of the mind are far more enduring. The story has an excellent plot, the action is natural and spirited, and the character drawing is in the author's best style. It is certainly one of MRS. GEORGE SHELDON'S most entrancing stories. It is No. 24 of Street & Smith's SELECT SERIES.

THE RECONCILIATION.

Two urchins strolling on the beach,
Beside the tranquil sea,
Beheld a pearly block, and each
Cried, "That belongs to me!"
And both at once with eager hands,
Began to scramble in the sands.

Like alabaster pure and white,
Upon the pebbled shore,
That treasure lay, a lovely sight,
And well worth fighting o'er;
Long struggled the contending twain
The prize so coveted to gain.

Lo, while they strove, a stranger tall,
Strode quickly to the spot,
He stooped beside the champions small,
And took the prize, I wot;—
Then spoke in solemn voice and slow,
"Ye both are richer than you know."

Then with a string he did divide
That precious cake, and smiled;
"'Tis Ivory Soap, share it with pride;
My lads, be reconciled!"
Each took his half and went his way,
Oh, rich and happy boys were they.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

HOUSERVILLE,

Houserville against the world!

The grand ball that was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Houser, of this place, on last Thursday evening was an unprecedented success. The evening, although not a favorable one owing to the inclemency of the weather, was one long to be remembered by a great many of the young folks of this vicinity who entered into the dance with great gusto and kept the ball rolling until the wee sma' hours of the morning.

P. B. Wirts, of this place, lost a very valuable hog last week by death.

We are very sorry to record the fact that Carrie, the young wife of Arthur B. Cowher, of this place, is at present prostrated with typhoid fever.

One of our aged citizens, Mr. Henry Benner, who is 85 years old, is now lying very seriously ill—old age is ascribed as the cause. He has eaten nothing in five weeks but a small cup of soup.

Mr. John Wirts, of Minnesota, is at present visiting his cousin, P. B. Wirts, and other relatives in this neighborhood.

Some of our very ambitious young men are talking of organizing a literary society in this place. Boom'er up boys, its a cold day when Houserville gets left.

SHORTY.

FAIRBROOK,

What a pity that there is no snow these fine moonlight nights.

Mr. Thompson Campbell, of Ohio, was visiting friends in this vicinity last week.

The second term of school is now in session at Fairbrook, with a class membership of 35, and under the instruction of Prof. J. A. Weaver. Although the young folks seem scarce during the week they all come home for singing and the fun connected with it.

'Squire Laporte, of Philipsburg, spent last week among his old acquaintances of this place. The 'squire is a jolly good fellow and we wish he would come often.

Mr. Thomas Frank, who had his arm broken a few weeks ago while threshing, is, we are glad to say, rapidly recovering.

The grain of Fairbrook looks well and there is now no danger of its being hurt by the free winds since Harrison's message has been published. DICK.

NOT FOR HIS OWN BENEFIT.

New England Magazine.

Major John was a stalwart, ruddy, middle-aged gentleman, fond of good clothes and good cheer. He had the habit of going into the village tavern about 11 o'clock in full dress and taking his repast alone in great dignity, with something to drink as well as eat. One morning, somewhere near 1830, the parson, who was about on a temperance mission, found him a table, surrounded by his viands.

"Major John," he said, "I wish you would sign this temperance pledge, not of course because you need it, but for the benefit of the rising generations, you know."

"Certainly, parson," said Major John. "Bring me a pen, landlord."

So the Major wrote his name in a bold hand; and the parson went his way rejoicing for the new sheep in the temperance fold. But the very next week the parson, in that very same tavern, found Major John at the very same table, taking his breakfast, and with not one bottle less."

"Why, Major," he cried, "you signed the temperance pledge last week."

"So I did, parson," says Major John; "but then I did it, you know, for the benefit of the rising generations."

SHOT OFF THE DEER'S TAIL.

"A day or two after that," said the architect to a Chicago Herald man, as he passed around the cigars, and lit a fresh one himself, "we took a day light tramp after game. I was walking ahead of the party, and, as I brought up suddenly, my friend stopped, too. There not a hundred feet away, loomed the beautiful head and wide branchings of a deer.

"I raised my rifle to my shoulder and fired instantly. The magnificent beast jumped as the report came, and broke away. I gave hot chase. Every few hundred yards I would come upon a large pool of blood, and that encouraged me greatly and spurred me on.

"I guess I followed that fellow ten miles, and, just as I was about to quit and give up in despair, I parted some bushes and there lay in a pool of blood——"

"The deer," shouted the audience.

"No," said Addison, "the deer's tail, which I had almost shot off at the stump as the animal jumped."

Four melancholy men arose and walked downstairs. They did not wait for the elevator.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Head cut clean off and the Body Dreadfully Mutilated.

An awfully sudden and fatal accident occurred in the Tyrone yard of the P. R. R. this morning at about 7.30, to Samuel Elder, conductor of local freight between Tyrone and Curwensville. He was standing in the yard taking the numbers of the cars which was to have made up his train. While thus engaged engine No. 64 which tookthe passenger train leaving Philipsburg at 5.40 to Tyrone and which had been handed to the hostler to take to the yard for wate and cleaned, knocked him down and cut him litterly in pieces his head being severed from his body.

A second engine No. 103 was being backed for a similar purpose and that also passed over the mutilated body before it could be stopped.

Elder has been in the employ of the company for several years and was one of the most reliable of men and a man of much caution. He is spoken of by those who knew him in the highest terms of respect, and a gloom was cast over the yard on the imployees becoming acquainted with the awfully sad intelligence.

The deceased was about 28 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children to mourn their loss.

State Reformitary Chapel Dedicated.

The chapel at the Pennsylvania Reformatory, Huntingdon, was dedicated to the service of the Lord on Sunday. The sermon was delivered by Dr. Reed of Dickinson college, and the formal dedicatory service was performed by Rev. Curns of the Methodist church. Hon. S McCamant, member of the Board of Managers, presenting the building for dedication. The service was in charge of Major McClaughry, Superintendent of the institution, and all the Huntingdon ministers took part in the exercises, which were neat and impressive. Dr. Reed's sermon was a strong one and shaped so as to impress the boys and young men confined in the reformatory with the importance of directing their lives in an honorable and useful channel.

There are now nearly 200 criminals confined in the institution, and everything is well systematized and moving along in first rate order. Major McClaughry is considered a very elegant superintendent and he has a good corps of assistants. Major Austin Curtin of this county, is the able head of the supply department. The chapel has a seating capacity of about six hundred and on Sunday was well filled.

Governor Beaver in Huntingdon.

Special to the TRIBUNE.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., December 4.—Governor Beaver paid his respects to the public school teachers of this county today by attending the institute now in session here. He addressed the teachers on the subject of manual training of children, and his remarks were received with the greatest satisfaction. The governor's address is regarded as one of the most practical and sensible speeches that has ever been heard before an educational assemblage in this county. He strongly advocated the training of children in the arts, trades and sciences, and vigorously denounced the present school laws as being utterly inadequate in their provisions for the education of children, and entirely too antiquated for use in this advanced age. The governor bitterly criticised many of the existing forms of education as employed in the Pennsylvania public schools. His address was well received and provoked unbounded enthusiasm.

The Weather for the Year.

Watch the first twelve days in January closely, as the weather in these twelve days is so will the weather in the twelve months of the year be. Do not only take a general observation of the day, but jot down carefully the condition of the weather in the afternoon and it will correspond with the weather in the first and latter part of the month. To illustrate, if the morning of January 6th, for instance, is clear and the afternoon rainy the first part of June will be pleasant weather and the latter part wet. According to the prediction of this year, December will be very pleasant and mild, as the twelfth of January, this year was almost like a spring day. Keep your eye on December and see if the calculations are not correct.

A. C. Davis' slaughter house, at Greensburg, in which were four head of cattle, two hogs, 500 pounds of lard, hides, tallows, machinery, etc., valued at $1,600 was entirely destroyed by fire Wednesday night. It was the work of an incendiary: No insurance.

A Good Company and Doing a Good Business.

It has only been a few years since the Messrs. Collins came to this place and announced their determination to build a railroad and furnace. Although by reputation those gentlemen were always known to have lots of push in them, yet so many enterprises had so often been started in Bellefonte—on paper—that a great many thought the projected railroad and furnace as then mapped out by the Messrs. Collins might prove another such: But it has not been so; and now, only about three years from the time of starting, they are one of the solid industries of this place and every day they increase their strength and capacity in some way. Not satisfied with present business they are all the time investigating and experimenting for the advancement of the manufacture of iron and ore and which will be of great advantage to this community.

They have extended their railroad during the past year eight or ten miles and still intend further extension. They are constantly adding to and improving their furnace plant and all the time are adopting the latest and best modes for manufacturing the best grades of pig iron, and in this latter they succeed wonderfully well as there is not a better grade of pig iron on the market than that of their manufacture.

A visit to the works will convince anyone of the go-ahead-ativeness of this firm. Everything has been arranged and planned for the faciltisling of work. No horses and carts are employed but all hauling is done by the iron horse. Electric lights are hung all around through the works which render it at all times as light as broad day so that there is at no time any inconvenience from darkness. The raw material—ore, limestone and coke—is stored conveniently to the feeders so that no time is lost in keeping the furnace well stocked. And the arrangements for shipping their metal is one of the best in the state, the railroad running within fifty feet of the casting house.

They are now running out an average of ninety to ninety-five tons of metal in twenty-four hours, and on Monday of this week they run out one hundred and one tons. This was exceptionably good as the ore they are now using is of none the best quality, yet, notwithstanding that fact, they make an A. No. 1 quality of iron. The Messrs. Collins must now have on their pay rolls about six hundred men, and this fact alone will convince the average citizen that they are a good company for Bellefonte and vicinity.

The managers are all business men of the first magnitude and at all times are courteous, social and obliging. Long may they prosper and continue to grow should be the earnest wish of all Bellefonte citizens.

Will the Glass Works Again be put in Operation?

A rumor has been current on the streets for several days that the glass works were to be fixed up and again be put in operation. A DAILY NEWS representative visited the works on Wednesday and there found four men busy repairing and cleaning up. The high stacks were being repaired and covered with a coat of coal tar, and rubbish was being gathered up and things put to rights generally. Inquiry, however, elicited no information only that they had orders to put things in better shape. No person who is reputed to be in authority could be found anywhere, hence no reliable information could be obtained, but from all appearance it is to be inferred that something is to be done.

What a grand thing it will be if the works should be started, and they can be, just as well as not. There is no better plant in Central Pennsylvania than this; there is no man more capable of running the works than Mr. L. T. Munson, the present owner, under whose management the works were the most prosperous of any time since their erection, and what a boon it would be for the laboring men this winter. Start them up gentlemen, start them up.

David Spencer, one of the oldest residents of Lumber City, Clearfield county, is dead at the age of 76.

The Clearfield county court, in session this week, had no person before it charged with serious offences.

A 4 year old lad whose parents reside in West Clearfield fell into a vessel of boiling water on Friday of last week and was so badly scalded that he died on Sunday.

David Alms, a miner who resides near Greensburg, was injured so badly by a a fall of slate on Wednesday afternoon that he died the same evening. He leaves a large family.

Dr. J. H. Hulbert, of Mill Hall, Clinton county, died yesterday at the age of 82. He came of a long-lived family, his father having died at the age of 104, and a brother still living being 93.

The barn of J. F. Reed, of Laurence township, clearfield county, was destroyed by fire last Saturday night, with all its contents, including seven cows, a mowing machine, wagon and the year's crops. A falling lamp was the cause.

—Day Express ran into a freight train just west of Greensburg Wednesday morning. Six persons were pretty badly injured and one man was killed. The other passengers were well shaken up. The cause of the accident was a misplaced switch. The body of the man who was killed was brought to Altoona.

New and Wonderful Preparations.

PSYCHE'S SECRET,
OR EXTRACT OF ORIENTAL ROSES FOR
Beautifying the Complection Making the Skin Soft, Fair and Rosy as a Healty Infant's.

A MIRACULOUS preparation, that imitates nature to such perfection as to positively defy detection, even with a microscope. Renders the skin semi-transparent, and harmonizes with the blood color of the face, making the pale cheek a beautiful roseate tint. Imparts wondrous beauty to the skin, and brilliancy to the eyes; it is entirely different from any other preparation of the kind, as when applyed it remains fixed for at least twenty-four hours, and will not wash or rub off, and yet, remember it is not a paint.

Psyche's Cream of Oriental Roses, An unrivaled preparation for the skin, guaranteed to contain nothing injurious. Cannot be detected. A substitute for face powder, etc., removes Tan, Freckles, and cures all skin diseases making the skin as soft, smooth, and fair as that of a healty infant.

PRICE OF EXTRACT, - - - - 50c
PRICE OF CREAM, - - - - $1.00.

EDISON'S ELECTRO-CHEMICAL-FLUID.

For the Permanent Removal of Superfluous Hair.

From the Forehead, Lips, Chin, Arms, or any portion of the Face or Body, without Pain.

AFTER centuries of fruitless study and research by the world's ablest chemists, we have at last discovered a liquid preparation which we guarantee to permanently remove superfluous hair from any part of the face or body in TWO MINUTES, without pain or injury to the skin.

There are many dilapidatories for the removal of superfluous hair, but all of them are either inefficacious or of little moment. The Electro-Chemical Fluid on the contrary, effects its purpose thoroughly and permanently. It supersedes the razor, renders the scissors unnecessary, and is WARRANTED to remove superfluous hair completely, totally and radically extirpating the disfigurement, leaving the skin smooth, soft and natural.

Price per bottle, - - - - $2.00.
Large bottles, containing four times the quantity, - 5.00.

In order to introduce this preparation, we will for next 90 days, send sample bottle free, to any address. Send two cent stamp for postage.

For sale by Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers generally, or sent to any address on receipt of price. An energetic agent wanted in every town to introduce these preparations. Liberal terms. NICHOLS & CO., General Agents, 46 West 14th St., New York.

EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

—The Philadelphia Times of Monday evening, in its "Around the Hotels" department, refers to Captain Thos. E. Clark, of Philipsburg, as follows: Captain Clark who looks so much like Major Kretz, of Texas, who is a famous politician, that they are frequently mistaken for one another, is at the Lafayette. Captain Clark is at the head of a detective bureau covering the Clearfield coal district, with headquarters at Philipsburg, Centre county. He is just through with the Hopkins murder case, at Bellefonte, in which he collected the evidence for the Commonwealth, and last night entertained some friends with curious stories about the trial and the fortitude of the condemned man after it was concluded. Jack Spangler who was leading counsel for the prosecution, said, in his speech to the jury, that the prisoner was a coward, because it was shown that, after he had killed his wife and mother-in-law, he fired two shots at his own head, both of which missed. The reason was that, as he pulled the trigger in both cases, he dodged his head, and Colonel Spangler said he couldn't take his own medicine. When the verdict of guilty was given he didn't flinch, and, after sentence was pronounced, he simply turned to the Sheriff and asked for a chew of tobacco. Immediately afterward a couple of friends called on him and he remarked: "Didn't I take my medicine without squealing."

It has Been Neglected.

Williamsport REPUBLICAN.

There is one thing about the sickness at Lock Haven which has so far gone unnoticed, and that is the fact that among the first afflicted was Joe Furey, of the Lock Haven Democrat. Joe is always a leader or nothing. It makes little difference to him whether it is the measles or Bright's disease. If the thing has any show of becoming general, Joe will catch it first and be out in time to write poetry for every one who dies in the rush to catch on afterwards.

A reward of $150 is offered for his aprehension.

A PATENT ENVELOPE OPENER.

A Little Thing Which May Prove a "Big Thing."

Mr. Brockway, the "Yankee Candy Man," formerly of Lock Haven but now located in the McClain block, this place, has been granted a patent for an "envelope and wrapper opener," which, though as simple as simplicity itself, is as ingenious as it is convenient, and which, we predict, will before many years be universally adopted by all manufacturers of envelopes, newspaper wrappers, can wrappers, etc.

The patent is simply as follows: A thread is sewn in the flap of the envelope just where it will come on the edge when the envelope is sealed up. By simply pinching the corner off the envelope and then pulling the thread out it opens the envelope from corner to corner quicker and nicer than it can be done with a knife. The patent also applies to newspaper wrappers, where a thread sown through one can, without any difficulty, be opened instantly almost. It will be a great advantage for to have in large magazine and catalogue wrappers which, after being properly put up, become so tight that it is hard to get them open without tearing the book. It is also applicable to wrappers for fruit and all kinds of cans where it is necessary to cut the wrapper to get the lid off. What business man has not experienced difficulty at times in opening letters. If he attempts to tear the end off he frequently tears the letter; if he cuts along the top edge with his knife he is as likely to cut in two a letter which he might not want destroyed, or, maybe, a thousand dollar check. Then besides the danger of mutilation he is losing too much time when he is obliged to reach in his pocket for his knife, open it and cut the envelope every time he gets a letter.

Mr. Brockway's patent is undoubtedly a good one and we expect, ere long, to see every envelope manufacturer adopt it in the make up of their goods. We are informed that the gentleman already has received word from one business firm that after the first of next April they would want 25,000 per month with his patent, and there are others who are now negotiating for some. Mr. Brockway is an old soldier, badly used up during the time he served his country, and we trust that this patent of his may prove "a big thing" for him as he richly deserves it.

Mr. Powers' Method Explained.

Mr. Powers opens his performance by giving the audience a short description or explanation of the story and plot of the play and the characters to be represented. Then, as if the curtain had risen upon the first act, he proceeds to impersonate the character who appears first in the scene, then when the cue arrives for the next character he instantly and completely changes to that character, and to another and another as they come on, and carries on the action and dialogue as if all the people represented were actually before the eyes of the audience; and so completely and instantaneously does he change his face, voice, carriage, and whole bodily appearance to suit each character as he takes it, that the illusion is perfect, and this too without any change of costume.

The exceeding novelty of such a performance, and the perfection and entire absence of effort with which he accomplishes what would seem an impossible undertaking, has won for Mr. Powers the renown of standing alone and unapproachable in his peculiar and fascinating art. After all is said no person will fully understand the rare charm of this truly wonderful performance until he has witnessed it.

Will be in the Court House this place, on Friday evening December 13. Tickets now on sale at usual places, price 50 cents

CONSUMPTION CURED

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Caught in the Machinery.

A young man named Newton Grenoble, employed at Knecht's flouring mill in Nittany Valley, was caught in the machinery Monday afternoon and narrowly escaped a horrible death. He was engaged in oiling the machinery when the accident happened and in some manner, which is difficult to account for, his clothing came in contact with a revolving shaft by which he was drawn into such a position that his body stopped the whole machinery. When released he was more dead than alive but as no bones were broken he soon recovered.

—The young ladies of the Presbyterian church made about $142 at their fair on Thursday afternoon and evening. They feel very much encouraged over the result and desire to extend their thanks to all who contributed articles, and also to the public in general for their liberal patronage. Acknowledgments are also made to the agent for the Lion coffee who generously donated that article for the refreshments served and which was highly complimented as being very good.

FIRE PROOF BUILDIOGS.

Some that May not Prove so When Attacked by Flames.

The recent burning of several alleged fire proof buildings in different sections of the country, entailing the destruction of many million of dollars in property and the loss of a score of lives, prompts the query: Can a building be so constructed as to be absolutely fire-proof? How many of these buildings are there in Bellefonte, which may some day prove veritable tinder-boxes and flaming funeral pyres? How many of these fire-proof buildings have succumbed to the flames and perished? Not only in other cities, but right here in Bellefonte, attempts have been made to construct buildings that would withstand the fiercest and most destructive flames. These buildings were pointed to with pride and pronounced fire-proof, in every essential particular, by their builders. But where are those buildings now—those costly structures that their owners believed would stand for ages and prove enduring monuments to their wisdom and sagacity? They are gone, having been swept away by the flames, burning as readily and vanishing as quickly as the wretched buildings adjoining, which everyone knew would burn like pitch the moment they were touched by fire. Buildings that were hastily and cheaply constructed upwards of a quarter of a century ago, and which have been exposed to utter destruction by fire on more than one occasion, still stand, having not even been scorched by the flames which roared and seethed around them. But the fire-proof buildings which were not hastily and cheaply constructed; that were built to stand; to snap their fingers, so to speak, at the hottest and most desolating fire that ever raged—where are they? Ask their owners; ask the fire department: ask the insurance agents who carried the policies, and ask the companies who had to plunge their arms deep into their coffers to make good the losses which these alleged fire-proof buildings had sustained.

The NEWS hopes that none of these buildings in this city that are occupied as dwelling places will prove death traps and fire-proof failures when fire touches them. The loss of human life is sad enough however caused, but it is rendered doubly so by fire, which generally disfigures its victim beyond all recognition. However, in view of the many fire-proof structures that have recently gone skyward in flame and smoke, it is well to use extra precautions and to provide every facility for escape from incinuation when the fire fiend comes. While it is barely possible that strictly fireproof buildings may eventually be devised and constructed, it will not do to boast to loudly of the flame defying qualities that now adorn our streets, lest we awaken some cold morning to find them heaps of ashes and smouldering funeral piles.

The Nail Works in Full Blast.

A DAILY NEWS reporter visited the nail works on Thursday afternoon and found everything there bearing close resemblance to a hive of bees—workmen swarming everywhere and a continual buzz, buzz of the pondreous machinery. But the chief attraction was the new gas plant. This plant had been erected and tried some time ago but it was then not considered a great success and the furnaces were run as ever. The persons who put down the plant then made some changes and now they have it so that when everything is in order and the proper appliances have been put in shape they can manufacture gas enough from that one plant to run all the furnaces and boilers. The capacity of the plant is 100,000 feet of gas a day. This is the largest gas manufacturing aparatus in the United States. Another peculiarity and good point about it is that fuel gas and illuminating gas can both be manufactured at one and the same time.

Affairs at the Y. M. C. A.

The Board of Directors and the Woman's Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association, about twenty in number, assembled around a well spread table at the Association rooms on Thursday evening, and did ample justice to the good things provided. After which an informal meeting was held and the interests and needs of the Association talked over.

The Board of Directors then held their regular monthly meeting, leaving the Auxiliary to organize and form plans of procedure. Progress is reported all along the line, the gymnasium is rapidly nearing completion and the Association is in excellent condition.

GENERATIONS MADE HAPPY.

Because the Bellefonte Democrats are Voting the Prohibition Ticket.

[The following in relation to the claim that Bellefonte Democrats voted the Prohibition ticket at the late election is from the pen of the "Mountain Hermit:"]

Many, many years ago, my boy, when in the first flush of youth, there was wafted to my young and growing ears this pleasing bit of intelligence: "The Democrats of Bellefonte are voting the Prohibition ticket." How well do I remember the blissful tidings, which have ever remained indelibly impressed upon the tablets of my memory. As the years came and went I married and became the fond parent of a numerous progeny; and through all these years I was rendered superlatively happy by the thought that "the Democrats of Bellefonte are voting the Prohibition ticket." My children, like other people's children, had their childish bickerings and their little strifes, but when I appeared among them upon these discordant occasions and gently announced that "the Democrats of Bellefonte are voting the Prohibition ticket," they at once fell upon each other's neck and wept tears of ecstatic joy. My sons upon attaining the age of manhood, went forth into the world to engage in the great battle of life. Many times were they overcome by adversity, many times were they upon the brink of ruin, many times did their future appear dark and gloomy; yet opportunely at these dismal moments would their thoughts revert to the happy scenes of their childhood, and with these thoughts would come this blessed memory: "The Democrats of Bellefonte are voting the Prohibition ticket," and with this memory the dark and gloomy future passed away and the bright sunshine of hope at once illumined their pathway. My aged father-in-law (peace to his ashes!) one fearfully gloomy night found himself upon the bed of death. As the end drew near and the grave yawned for its coming tenant, it was incidently observed by a mourner, between his sobs, that "the Democrats of Bellefonte are voting the Prohibition ticket." These cheering words fell softly and sweetly upon the dying man's ears, and with a seraphic smile upon his face he faintly murmured his joy, and blissfully passed away. How often have my own aged limbs been racked by rheumatism and pains innumerable; how often have I suffered the torments of dyspepsia, the agony of gout! Yet as often have all my pains and torments and agonies disappeared upon my physician casually announcing "The Democrats of Bellefonte are voting the Prohibition ticket."

With me, my boy, life is now drawing to a close. Although a member of a long-lived race, death will soon appear upon the scene and mow me down with his remorseless scythe. Knowing that my career upon earth is almost over, I have called in my lawyers and had them prepare my last will and testament, My executors have been instructed to erect a towering monument to my memory, upon which shall be inscribed, for the benefit of generations yet unborn, in great letters of gold, this thrilling legend:

THE DEMOCRATS OF BELLEFONTE
ARE VOTING
THE PROHIBITION TICKET.

In and Around Milesburg.

A representative of this paper was in Milesburg on Thursday and whilethere he was impressed with the impressible impression that it was a pity—in some ways—that Bellefonte had not been built where Milesburg is and vica versa. Bellefonte is destined to grow—and at the present rate of increase it will not be further off than the year 2347 when it will be necessary to either level the adjoining mountains or annex Milesburg in order to have sufficient room to meet the enormous demands of the building boomers.

But now we are digressing. Milesburg is a pretty place and is nicely located and now, with the addition of that new iron bridge, it is greatly enhanced in value as a place for permanent location. Milesburg, however, can boast of some fine business houses and most prominent among the list stands that of Wm. B. Miles & Son. This is a general merchandise store in which you can buy anything and everything to please the young and delight the old. This firm, composed of Mr. William Miles and his son, Oscar, is one of the solid business houses of Milesburg, and well they deserve to be. There store is a model of neatness, while every piece or bit of goods in it is fresh and new. They handle no old stock but all good goods.

The population of Milesburg is composed principally of laboring men and, to their credit be it said, there was not one idle man to be seen on the streets of that town for the two or three hours spent there. They are an industrious people and as such are worthy of commendation.

Mr. A A Kohlbecker, of that place, is off to the mountains on a deer hunt.

Mr. J Miles Green is attending court in this place.

—Many of the citizens of Bellefonte remember Dr. F. Pierce Hoy, a brother of Dr. H. K. Hoy, of this place, who is now in California. A recent letter received from him by his brother gives glowing descriptions of their home in that faraway state, and from his description, it must be a veritable eden. Orange and lemon trees are now laden with the ripening fruit, while other tropical fruits and plants are now in the zenith of their glory.

THE CREAM OF BELLEFONTE.

Will Soon be Churned into Butter and Made into Cheese.

Some time ago the DAILY NEWS made mention of a creamery soon to be erected in Bellefonte and now we can announce positively that such an industry is already well under way, and that early next spring there will be turned out from the Bellefonte creamery some of the finest gilt-edge butter that can be produced anywhere, and also cheese that will rival in quality any now in the market.

The building for this new industry is now almost completed and is located on the north side of Willow Bank street. The exact kind and style of machinery to be used in the manufacture of the butter and cheese has not yet been fully determined, but it will be of the very best and most modern style.

When everythihg is in running order and sufficient milk can be secured for to run the creamery to its full capacity, it is expected that from one thousand pounds to one ton of butter will be turned out daily. This will be sufficient to butter a good many slices of bread.

—Mr. John Downing, aged 76 years, died at the residence of his son Emanuel at Vail, Tuesday evening at 10.30 o'clock. He leaves a wife and five children to mourn his loss. They are Emanuel Downing, Vail; Robert Downing Loveville; Mrs Julia Way, Curwensville; Mrs. Rebecca Beans, Hannah, and Mrs. Hulda Irwin, Curwensville. He was a firm believer in the Quaker faith and so died. The funeral will take place to-day Thursday, Dec. 5, from the residence of Emanuel Downing, Vail, and proceed to Loveville to place of burial. At one time Mr. Downing was an extensive farmer and an old time driver on the old plank road between Bellefonte and Tyrone, and Pittsburg. A few years ago he went west to look after some lands he owned in Wisconsin and Missouri, returning home about a year ago. His health has been on the decline until of late when he had two paralytic strokes by which he was prostrated until the time of his death.

A SCARED EDITOR.

A rugged farmer stalked into the sanctum with a big whip under his arm.

"Be you the editor?" "I am," was the half apprehensive reply.

"Here's two dollars—send me your paper, for life," he said.

"You see," he went on, "our daughter was sick and like to die; she drooped and grew weak and pale, had headaches, no appetite, back ached, hands and feet like ice, couldn't sleep, hacked with cough, and we thought she had consumption. No medicine helped her until she tried that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription mentioned in your paper, when she began to mend in no time and is now well and handsome as a rose—put me down as a life subscriber."

Now the editor is looking for another scare. The medicine has cured thousands afflicted as was the farmer's daughter, restoring the female functions to healthy action, and removing the obstructions and suppressions which caused her trouble. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or price ($1.00) refunded. It's a legitimate medicine, not a beverage. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to sour or ferment in the stomach and derange digestion.

is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds, made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE,

far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic it might be called

since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spoonfuls.

It istoo much to asser" that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known.

if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Manyof them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia, headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. Given a Hearing.

ALFRED ANDREWS, WHO WAS ARRESTED ON SUSPICION OF MURDERING CLARA PRICE, WAS SATURDAY

Sent Back to Jail to Await His Trial.

A Full Account of the Entire Evidence on Which the Prisoner is Held—Startling Revelations and Damaging Testimony.

It was just ten o'clock on Saturday when Alfred Andrews, arrested for the murder of Clara Price, which murder took place in Burnside township on Wednesday morning, November 27, 1889, was brought before Judges Furst and Rhoades on a writ of habeas corpus. District Attorney J. C. Meyer and ex-Judge Orvis appeared for the Commonwealth and E. R. Chambers and Col. J. L. Spangler appeared for the defence.

The prisoner is a young man and much under size for a person of his age, and looks like an inoffensive working man.

Before the examination of witnesses commenced His Honor, Judge Furst, requested the newspapers there represented to refrain from publishing any of the evidence as given in detail, but simply to give a historical sketch of the proceedings, alleging as a reason for his request that if the testimony in full was published it might put the court to great inconvenience in the selection of a jury should the prisoner be remanded for a trial.

James Marsteller was the first witness examined and his evidence showed that on that fatal morning himself and another man were going to a hunting camp on the other side of Karthaus. When near the bridge, on this side of the river, they found a woman lying dead in the road with bullet wounds on her person. These parties drove on to Karthaus and gave the alarm when, in company with others, they returned to the dead body, which still lay in the road and which was identified as the body of Miss Clara Price.

Mrs. Sarah Michaels and other ladies who resided near Pine Glenn on the Karthaus pike, testified that they saw Clara Price pass their several houses at from 9 to 9.30 a. m. of the morning of the finding of her dead body; and that a short time after they saw a small man, wearing a dark derby hat, pass along the same road towards Kartnaus, but failed to recognize in the prisoner that person. Several persons, including the prisoner, were then requested to put on derby hats and stand up in court. Witness was then asked to point out the person who most resembled the man she saw passing her house that morning. After severely scrutinizing those standing up she selected E. R. Chambers, Esq., one of the counsel for the prisoner as one that most resembled the man who passed her house that morning shortly after Clara Price passed. It was also given in evidence by those women that two peddlers and Mr. Samuel Emerick and wife passed along the road that morning.

Mrs. Irvin testified that she saw a man pass by her house a short time after Miss Price passed and thought the prisoner looked like that person.

Mr. Emerick, who lives along the pike in sam eneighborhood, recognized the prisoner, Andrews, as resembling the man who passed Mrs. Mulhollan's that Wednesday morning.

Justice of the Peace Rankin, of Karthaus, testified to holding the inquest on the body of Clara Price and of measuring two tracks in the road near where the body was found; and that there were evidences of a tussle near by but that none of the clothes were disarranged and that her face was partly warm when found, which was near 11 a. m. of November 27, 1889.

Court then adjourned until 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

It was just eleven minutes of 2 p. m. when the court crier declared the court opened and just one minute later when the sheriff appeared with the prisoner.

Mrs. Watson was the first person called and she testified to having seen Clara Price pass her place about 9 o'clock of said day, and that shortly after a man wearing a short brown coat and black derby hat passed in same direction, and that he was walking very fast. Recognized prisoner as the man she saw. She saw no one else pass that morning.

Dr. Nevling, of Karthaus, testified that he was acquainted with the murdered girl and that he saw her that day lying in the road dead. It was then about 12·30 o'clock. She was lying on her face and breast with her hands crossed under her. From all appearance she had been running. The body was then cold outwardly but still warm internally. Her hat was lying about a rod from her body with a bullet hole through it, and a bullet had perforated the basket she had been carrying which lay near by. At that time only one bullet hole was discovered on her person and that was through her ear. An examination of the ground revealed the fact that she had been running. Tracks were found 13 rods further on the pike and leading i[illegible] Only one of these was plainly discernible and it measured 10¼ inches. The doctor made a post mortem examination and found the ball that caused her death to have entered between the 8th and 9th rib on left side of body, passed through the lung, severed the pulmonary artery and lodged against the sternum. The force of the ball was well spent as it was in no ways flattened or misshapen. It was of 32 calibre centre fire. The doctor in company with two others went on the the trail, entering the woods at the place where the tracks were seen and following the trail as far as possible until undergrowth checked their way when they diverged to right and then left but went out of the woods in the logging camp at same place prisoner emerged on that day, covering the distance in about forty minutes.

Mitchell Watson testified that he was working on the river at Karthaus when he heard five gun shots in the direction of pike. He was a little below the point where the girl was found. Supposed it was about 10 o'clock.

Thomas P itts testified that while working on the railroad at Karthaus he heard five shots on pike in the direction of where the dead body was found. It was just about 10 o'clock.

Mrs. William Croft testified that she lives on the pike this side of Boak's store and about five miles from the river. She was at home on Tuesday night and that night entertained at her house a stranger who wanted a night's lodging. He left her house at 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Identified prisoner as the man she entertained. She saw him again on Wednesday afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock on the pike going toward Snow Shoe. He seemed to be in a hurry and did not speak, though he looked up.

Herbert Bates testified he saw a man, who he now recognized as the prisoner, going toward Karthaus in the morning and towards Snow Shoe in the afternoon.

Reuben Holt testified that he was working in Moyer's job on Wednesday between 11 and 12 o'clock a. m. when a man came to the job from direction of pike and asked where Karthaus was. He got on a stump and pointed the direction when the man said he would go and get his dinner. In about half an hour he returned and inquired the way out to the pike. This time he hardly stopped. Recognized the prisoner as the man.

Redmond Holt, a brother of Reuben's, corroborated his brother's evidence in detail, and recognized prisoner as the man.

Arthur Graham, who also was at work in the Moyer job, corroborated evidence of Reuben Holt and recognized prisoner as the man.

Thomas Smith, testified that he was accosted by a man going from Moyer's camp out to pike, said man asking him the direct route which he gave him, walking along with him probably 300 yards. Recognized prisoner as the man.

Mrs. Shope recognized the prisoner as the man who had applied at her house to be kept all night and when refused asked for something to eat.

Theodore Cramer testified that he has known Alfred Andrews, the prisoner, for about one year and that he was the man who was at Moyer's camp on Wednesday, November 27th.

Constable Simler, of Philipsburg, testified to having arrested prisoner in the cellar of his house at Brisbin, Clearfield county, on the Sunday following the murder of Clara Price, and of bringing him to the Bellefonte jail on Monday. He made another trip to Andrews' house and obtained the shoes he wore when he was at Karthaus. The shoes were given him by Andrews' wife; she got them out of the stairway. (The shoes were shown in court.) Mr. Simler said there were blood spots on the shoes.

Sheriff Cooke said Andrews told him that he cut the sole off his shoe going out the road to Boak's. Did not tell the prisoner if he would tell all about it I could get him out.

With this the hearing closed.

Col, Spangler, for the defence, interposed no objections to the holding of prisoner if their Honor's, in their judgment saw fit to do so, but he wanted the court to see that his rights were respected and not to allow anybody to see him—not even the Sheriff to talk to him only with the consent or in the presence of his counsel. Mr. Spangler complained against the Sheriff trying to "pump" a confession out of prisoner, but the court settled the question by saying that Sheriff Cook had one of the best of records as an efficient official and that during his term of office had never yet appeared as a witness in one criminal case.

The court decided that there was sufficient evidence gainst prisoner to hold him and he was remanded into the custody of the Sheriff for safe keeping to stand trial at the next regular term of court. In the meantime, the court charged the Commonwealth, they must seek for all evidence as to the real murder that can be found and not to depend on his holding the prisoner as conclusive evidence of his guilt. And so the hearing ended.

—Don't forget that Leland T. Powers, the renowned impersonator, will give Copperfield' impersonations in the court house next Friday night. Tickets 50 cents and now on sale at the usual places.

A GOOD MEDIUM.

THE ADVANTAGES OF THE "DAILY NEWS" FOR ADVERTISING MADE PLAIN.

A Man Who Has Tried It Talks.

Seventy-Five in One Evening Call for an Article Advertised in this Paper.

It has always been the claim of the publishers of the DAILY NEWS that it was the best advertising medium in Centre county, and, although the claim has never successfully been disputed, yet it has never been so fully demonstrated as now. All the business men of Bellefonte will do well to carefully consider this and act accordingly.

We refer to the article published in Saturday's issue of the NEWS describing the patent envelope of M. Brockway's, and we have that gentleman's word for it that on that same evening he destroyed over three packages of envelopes in showing visitors how the the thing was worked. All had read the article in the DAILY NEWS. Mr. Brockway considers this paper one of the best advertising mediums he ever tried or heard of in his life.

We claim for the DAILY NEWS that an advertisement placed in its columns will be read by four times the number of people in Bellefonte as the same advertisement would be if placed in all the other papers published in the place. Why? Because it is the paper the people read; and the above is a fair illustration of how soon they read it and what dependence is placed on what appears in its columns, even as an advertisement. Any merchant who fails to advertise his wares in the DAILY NEWS fails to know a good thing when he sees it.

Birthday Surprise Party.

Oh, what a surprise! On Friday night Mr. Frank B. Stover, one of Bellefonte's most popular business men was given a wonderful surprise. He was 53 years old on Friday but he almost forgot the fact until in the evening when his home was invaded by a whole army of friends who reminded him of the fact that that was his birthday. They did not come empty handed, either, but when they departed left him a few material reminders of the pleasant occasion. Among the guests present were Rev. Hosbour and wife, Wm. Jenkins and wife, H. Y. Stitzer and wife, Clement Dale and wife, of Bellefonte; Jacob Bottorf and wife, of Lement; Jonathan Musser and wife, John Musser, Jr., and wife, of Pine Grove Mills; Wm. H. Musser and wife, of Milesburg; C. Dale, Jr. and wife, of Pleasant Gap; Mrs. Geo. Karp, Boalsburg; Mrs. W. H. Gingerick, Linden Hall; Alvin Stoyer and wife, Bellefonte; Miss Blanche Dale, Pleasant Gap, Misses Mamie and Sadie Stover, Miss Sallie Cockran, Mr. Curtin Musser, Mr. Hiram Fetterhoff, of Bellefonte; Misses Cora and Maud Musser, and Mr. Baker Krebs, of Pine Grove Mills.

Among the presents received, which were numerous and valuable, we mention a fine steel engraving from Hon. Fred Kurtz; upholstered chair from Mr. Stover's family; 2 pearl handle pocket knives, fountain pen, Muffler, handkerchief and a bottle of grape wine,—labeled "for the stomach's sake"—which was from John Musser, Jr., and was of his own make. Many other presents were also given. The entire affair ended in the serving of a grand supper which was also pleasantly appreciated.

It proved a very great surprise to Mr. Stover because he had been surreptitiously called to Pine Grove on business on Wednesday and did not arrive home until all things were ready and his house had been filled by his friends.

In Memory of David White.

Milesburg, Dec. 6 '89

Another old soldier has answered to the last roll call. David White, formerly a member of Company F, 148th Regt., Pa., Vols., died November 3rd, 1889, at Axe Mann, Centre co., Pa.

While we, his comrades of Dr. George L Potter Post, No. 261, Dept, of Pa., G A. R., bow in humble submission to the mandate of the Great Commander, believing he doeth all things for the best, we still sorrow for his death. Therefore,

Resolved, That Post 261 has lost a good, consistent and useful member; and that the Union has lost a brave defender. And further,

Resolved, that we deeply sympathize with the wife, children and friends of our fallen comrads.

A Moment.

Of your time, reader, may perhaps be profitably devoted to the following:—

Those who take an agency for a reliable enterprising house, learn their business and stick to it, "get on" in the world. People who have any idea of engaging in any canvassing business will do well to write George Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine—the great art and general publishers. They offer the most exceptional advantages to those who are sufficiently enterprising to be willing to make a push in order to better their condition. It costs nothing to try. Women make successful canvassers, as well as men. Full particulars will be sent to those who address the firm; their full address is given above.

Huntingdon County Court in Session.

Special to the Tribune.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., December 9.—A surprising amount of criminal business is awaiting to be disposed of at the present term of court, which convened here today. Since the shutting off of all liquor license in this county, nearly three years ago, the criminal court dockets of the county show a wonderful falling off in the amount of criminal business, and from one court to another this has shown a gradual decrease until the present term.

It was expected that Judge Saddler, of Cumberland county, would be here today to relieve Judge Furst, who is greatly indisposed owing to a serious injury which he sustained to his arm some time since. The former, however, not appearing, Judge Furst assumed his duties on the bench. Judge Saddler will be here to-morrow. Much of the criminal business of this term will be continued until February court, owing to the illness of Hon. R M Speer, who is retained in many of the cases.

Hard on Lock Haven.

The Bellefonte DAILY NEWS of late date says:

There is a man in Lock Haven so close that when he attends church he occupies the pew farthest from the pulpit, to save the interest on his money while the collectors are passing the plate for contributions.

He ought to live next door to the man who deducts from his preacher's salary the proportional amount due him when absent on a week's vacation.—Altoona Independent.

—Leland T. Powers on Friday evening in the Court House. This will be the second entertainment in the W. C. T. U. Star Course of entertainments and it will be a good one. As an impersonator Mr. Powers has very few equals and no superiors, and his "Copperfield" impersonations to be given on Friday evening is his best selection. Do not fail to hear him. Tickets only fifty cents, and now on sale at the drug stores, Boal's book store and Bunnell & Aiken's music store. Course tickets for the remaining five entertainments only $2.00.

—Another fearful death has been caused in New York by coming in contact with the electric light wires. We hope there are no dangerous places in Bellefonte where persons thoughtlessly might come in contact with this fearfully destructive element.

ENTERTAINMENTS TO COME.

Powers on Friday Night and Underhill and Beard Next Week.

"The success of this talented young artist has been phenomenal. He has gone to the front literally by leaps and bounds. Three years ago he was comparatively unknown. Last season he filled nearly two hundred engagements, beginning in October and continuing to the early summer; and this is an unusually dull season. The novelty and unusual merit of his entertainments is undoubtedly the cause of his great success. In his adaption of various plays he personates all the characters and imitates so exactly the voice, manner and characteristics of each one that it is almost impossible to realize that a number of persons are not on the platform. The change of voice and facial expression are made with wonderful rapidity, and each character is kept individual and distinct before his auditors. Mr. Powers excels in humorous and eccentric character delineations whereby he keeps his auditors in shouts of laughter. All this is done in evening dress without the least change of costume or make-up of any kind."

"Mr. Underhill's characteristic merits are many and telling. Vivacity, sensitiveness, keen and quick intelligence, a sturdy sense of humor, careful and thorough knowledge of the text, exceptional picturesqueness and variety of style, with a genuine dramatic feeling furnish a remarkable capital for any reciter, and Mr. Underhill is strong in all these possessions. His voice is always delightful, his presence is dignified and graceful, and his gestures are expressive.' Philadelphia Press.

"The caricature lecture by Frank Beard, of New York, was unusually well attended. He held his audience spellbound to the close, and a more delighted audience never left the auditorium. His lecture, which was fully illustrated by caricatures drawn at the moment, was brilliant with the strokes of his happy wit, and yet for those who preferred the sober thoughts there was an abundant supply. As an artist, Mr. Beard in his branch, stands peerless, and he is entertaining and accomplished as a lecturer. His lectures ever abound with original thoughts, and his manner and expressions are free from the hackneyed style."—Buffalo Coarier.

Centre County School Directors Association.

The annual meeting of the School Directors Association will be held in the High School Room in Bellefonte, on Thursday, December 19, 1889, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. It is hoped that there will be a full turn out of directors from all the districts.

Addresses have been promised on the following subjects from the gentlemen named:

Better supplies of apparatus and help, Prof. D. M. Lieb, Bellefonte.

Regular courses of study for ungraded schools, Prof. Ritchie, Philipsburg.

District Supervision, Rev. W. E. Fisher, Centre Hall.

The executive committee have also set down for discussion "Improvement in School Architecture," "Free Text Books," "Arbor Day and Tree Planting."

An effort will be made to have the train over the Lewisburg railroad leave Bellefonte at 3.30 p. m. on the day of the convention instead of 2 30 so as to enable the directors from Penns Valley to spend more time at the Convention.

E. A. RUSSEL, President,
W. B. RANKIN, Sec.

A Queer Write.

The Mapleton Item says: George Broombaugh, a 6-year old pupil of the No. 1 school of this borough has a peculiarity which is worthy of investigation. The lad is an ambipexterist. When writing with his right hand his copy book is kept in the usual position but when writing with his left hand the copy book is placed top-side down and the letters are formed in an inverted position. If he writes two lines, one with the right hand in an ordinary manner and the other in the peculiar manner in which he uses the left hand, and the copy book be handed to one who knows nothing of the manner in which the writing is done, that of the left hand will be selected invariably as the better specimen of penmanship. All efforts to prevent the placing of the book in the peculiar manner have proven fruitless.

Will Be Here.

The report in circulation that "Bob" Burdette would be unable to fill his engagement in Bellefonte during institute week is incorrect. He will be here as announced on Thursday evening, December 19th, and will deliver his famous lecture on the "Rise and Fall of the Moustache." Let there be a full turn out to hear him.
